92 Draft Registration Precincts Set Up In County

ASSIGN 2-MAN CREWS TO ALL VOTING BOOTHS

Election Board Gets Orders From State For Oct. 16 Registration Day.

CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS

Richland to Have Three Draft Boards of 5 Members Each, Under Revised Plan.

Richland county men between the ages of 21 and 35 will register Oct. 16 at their usual voting places under the national military conscription law, the election board was informed today by Secretary of State George Neffner.

The election board immediately began preparations for appointing two persons to serve in the 92 registration places from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. on the day of registration.

A. F. Porter, clerk of the board, said the two would probably be appointed from the list of six persons selected to preside at election booths at the Nov. 5 election.

A number of election officials have already volunteered to help with the military service registration, and Porter said the plan is to appoint persons who will not have to lose a day's work because of the registration. The registrars must serve without pay.

Richland county will have three draft boards of five members each instead of one as previously announced, it was learned today. There will be 338 boards in Ohio.

Under a change of plans, Gov. John W. Bricker was to name a third person today to serve with Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston and Probate Judge C. J. Anderson on the county advisory committee.

The committee of three will make 15 recommendations for appointments to the county's three draft boards.

Both Judge Huston and Judge Anderson received notice of the appointments today and they were to meet late today or tomorrow with the third member after the governor names him.

It was originally planned to have the two judges appoint the third member of the board. Having the governor appoint him, however, is expected to expedite the organization of county boards.

After the county committee makes its 15 recommendations, the governor will forward the names to Washington for actual appointment by President Roosevelt. The draft boards, serving without pay, will hear draftees' requests for exemption.

Hershey Assumes Temporary Post As Draft 'Boss'

WASHINGTON — (AP)— Lieut. Col. Lewis B. Hershey, who went to grade school at a place called Hell's Point, today became the temporary boss of the nation's first peacetime conscription program.

Pending appointment of a permanent No. 1 man, President Roosevelt, it was announced last night, has by executive order conferred upon Hershey all the powers of the director of selective service.

Hershey is a large, red-haired man who does not look like the military type. Born on a farm near Angola, Ind., 47 years ago, he got his early education in a one-room school house known as Hell's Point school. He took degrees at Tri-State college, taught school, and then entered the army via the National Guard. He saw service on the Mexican border in 1916 and in the World war.

For the past four years, he has been executive officer of the army and navy selective service committee, which has been studying and preparing draft plans for use in a national emergency since 1926.

Five Injured In Richland; State Toll 11

Four Mansfielders Hurt In Automobile Mishaps Over Week-End.

Five persons were injured, four of them Mansfield residents, in traffic accidents in Richland county yesterday, while week-end traffic and railroad accidents claimed 11 lives in the state. Two Ohioans were killed in Indiana.

Most seriously hurt in the Richland county area yesterday was Mrs. A. D. McNew, 13 North Walnut street, who was taken to General hospital following an accident between Little Washington and Lucas early Sunday morning.

Mrs. McNew was taken to the hospital with a fractured leg and pelvic bone. Her condition was described today by her son, Eddie McNew, driver of the automobile, as "improved but still serious.

Mrs. McNew's husband was treated at the hospital for a cut over his left eye. The accident happened when the car skidded on a gravel road and slid into an embankment, McNew said today.

Also in General hospital today as a result of an accident on route 30, two miles east of Mansfield early Sunday morning, was Mrs. Katherine Sonner, 38, 92 Waring avenue, and Mrs. Charles S. Fowles, 27, of 75 Park avenue east.

Mrs. Sonner was treated for lacerations of the scalp, for shock and bruises. Hospital officials said today that neither was injured seriously.

Injured when she hit the roof of the cab of the truck in which she was riding while crossing a rough railroad crossing on Orange street in Ashland yesterday, Mrs. George F. Windrich was taken to Samaritan hospital, Ashland, where she was treated for bruises.

Meanwhile, an affidavit charging manslaughter was signed Saturday afternoon by state highway patrolmen against Mrs. O. C. Kaufman of Bellevue following an accident Thursday in which Cliff Cowie, 55, of New London, was fatally injured. The acci-

Editors of the Daily Telegraph added:

Willkie Returns to Midwest; Roosevelt Sees Big Army Guns

HITS 'SUPERMAN' OF WASHINGTON

Says He Could Do Better Job With Defense Planners; In Ohio Wednesday.

(By Associated Press)

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN, EN ROUTE TO DETROIT—Wendell L. Willkie, speaking in a chill fog at South Bend, Ind., said today the belief that there are any "supermen" in Washington is a myth.

"There are dozens of boys in every Indiana town," said the Republican presidential nominee, "who could do federal jobs just as well.

"Are the people of Indiana going to vote for the theory that there is one indispensable man for president?"

Willkie talked briefly to an audience around his train at a siding near St. Mary's college after he had spoken to the student body of the University of Notre Dame on its tree-lined campus.

"Whether you are Republican or Democratic or Independent," he said at the latter point, "I think we can all join in thanks that American boys are not in the shambles of an European war."

"Every leader in the history of America in whom the people have had confidence," he said later at Niles, Mich., "has reiterated time and time again the necessity of preserving the two-term tradition. I haven't heard a single argument why this tradition should be violated except this one:

"Since we are in a period of crisis, some people argue that perhaps it is wise to keep this ad-

'CLOSE TO WAR'

Norman Thomas Hits Aid To Britain in Ohio Talk.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The United States "is as near to war as it can go without actually becoming a belligerent," Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president, asserted in an address last night.

"No nation short of war has given so much aid as this nation is giving to Britain," Thomas said.

He declared that peacetime conscription was "not proven necessary for military defense except by assertion."

"It points to fascism and imperialism and ultimately war and ruin," Thomas added.

PRESIDENT EYES TRIP INTO OHIO

Expected to Inspect Dayton's Wright Field Next Week; Tours Maryland Today.

(By International News Service)

ABERDEEN, Md. — President Roosevelt was aboard the White House yacht Potomac off the army big Aberdeen ordnance proving ground today, ready for a day-long inspection tour of Maryland defense facilities—a tour which probably will mark his only appearance in the free state during the current political campaign.

Although the chief executive will make no speeches, and will avoid the downtown sections of Baltimore, the course of his inspection trip will take him about 70 miles by motor through one of the most populous portions of Maryland.

On his itinerary were the Aberdeen proving grounds, where the army tests its guns and munitions; the Glenn L. Martin Aircraft factory at Middle River, which has just received a $99,614,880 order for bombers—largest single plane order in the nation's history—and Camp Mead, which is being rebuilt into a reception center for 25,000 army recruits at a cost of over $7,000,000.

Today's tour will be the president's sixth inspection swing—all

RADIO-GUIDED BOMB DEVELOPED

Inventor Says It Assures Bomber Of Hitting Target.

WARREN—(INS) A radio-controlled bomb assuring accuracy in hitting targets was studied today by U. S. army ordnance engineers following conferences with its inventor, Antonio Pannutti.

Experiments with models of these bombs have proved successful, Pannutti said. He explained that with his bomb the observer would release the missile from the bomber and as it traveled earthward he could see whether it was likely to overshoot or fall short of the target and with the radio control alter its course for a direct hit.

ROME (AP) Cooking fats were rationed today for the first time in Italy.

Other necessities already rationed include sugar and laundry soap.

205 Groups Asked To Join In Campaign For One-Mill Levy

Support by Mansfield civic organizations of a one-mill operating levy which will be submitted to voters at the Nov. 5 election was sought today by city officials.

Mayor William J. Locke said that 205 organizations in the city have been asked to send representatives to a meeting scheduled for Wednesday evening in municipal court room at City Hall.

Purpose of the session, he explained, will be to outline the proposal to the group and acquaint them with the needs for the levy so they can carry the information back to their respective organizations.

He said he hoped for some sort of an organized set up among the groups in order that the proposal could be "sold" to the voters.

Executive committeemen of both political partys have been invited to attend and will be asked to recommend its passage during their fall campaigns.

Submission of the proposal on the ballot was approved by council at its Sept. 3 meeting for the purpose of raising an estimated $57,000 annually for five years to finance operations of five municipal departments.

The issue requires a 65 per cent majority vote for passage.

Funds from the proposal are expected to be used for operation of the police and fire departments, parks, airport and public recreation.

Fire and police departments have annually sought additional manpower and equipment, and the parks and airport are in need of extensive improvements to keep pace with a growing city.

Funds for maintenance of city playgrounds were exhausted

AXIS POWERS HURL THREAT OF NEW PACTS

Italian Source Says Russia and Spain Will Sign If British Keep Fighting.

'LAST CHANCE' OFFER

Reassignment of Territory In Africa, Europe and Asia Planned by Axis.

By PERCY WINNER.

(By International News Service)

ROME—Unless Great Britain capitulates speedily, Germany and Italy plan military alliances with Soviet Russia and Spain in pursuance of a grandoise scheme for establishment of a "new order" throughout Europe, Asia and Africa, this correspondent was informed today.

A highly-placed neutral diplomatic source described the next projected steps in Axis diplomacy as Foregn Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano returned to Rome from Berlin and preparations were made to receive Ramon Serrano Suner, Spanish minister of the interior, on his arrival here tomorrow.

(Editor's Note: Official circles in Berlin would not deny rumors that Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop plans to fly to Moscow shortly for a conference with Premier and Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov of the soviet union. German quarters said it would be the "greatest political triumph" if Russia joined the tripartite Italo-German-Japanese military pact.)

Britain will be given a last chance, it was said, to accept a compromise peace plan reassigning territories and zones of influence in Africa. This arrangement will be drafted while Suner is in Rome.

For the present, it was emphasized, there are no plans for immediate Spanish acquiescence to a military pact. But Virginio Gayda, Premier Mussolini's authoritative editor, made clear in the Giornale D' Italia today that Britain will soon be confronted with the possibility of Spanish alliance with the Axis.

SAILOR BEATEN

American Abused by Japanese at Shanghai, Report.

SHANGHAI—(AP)—A sailor from the U. S. cruiser Augusta was reported today to have been detained by Japanese gendarmes Saturday night and allegedly beaten at gendarme headquarters before officers from the warship effected his release.

The sailor was detained on the Whangpoo waterfront while returning to his ship, it was said, and held at the gendarme headquarters for two hours.

The Shanghai press asserted the sailor apparently had been drinking when the gendarmes took him into custody.

After his release, it was said, he required medical treatment for face and body injuries.

German Planes Fail to Reach Enemy Capital

Air Raid Alarms Continue Over London; South Coast Towns Are Hit; Nazis Claim Heavy Damage, RAF Tells Of Attacks on Germany.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—For the fourth time today, London's air raid sirens screamed shrilly shortly before 5 p. m. (11 a. m. EST) when some German raiders managed to penetrate to the western suburbs of the capital. This was London's 143rd raid warning.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—British fighters fought a slashing, 20-minute battle with German raiders over cloud-shrouded London today which ended when the Nazi planes streaked off to the south.

The British press association declared the German flight had been chased away.

Unofficial reports said four German planes were brought down.

More than 20 bombs were reported dropped during two raids on a south coast town, causing some casualties and considerable damage.

There were three alarms in London before mid-afternoon. Anti-aircraft guns boomed into action during the third alarm when a German plane came into view over a northwest suburb.

The populace huddled in shelters took comfort from the air ministry's report that British bombers had carried out their own offensive during the night, peppering German-held points on the continent and raiding deep into Germany, causing heavy damage to Nazi war industries.

London's first alarm came during the morning rush hour.

On the coastal front German and British long-range gun crews threw shells at each other across the English channel.

The British Press association said the flying invaders "split into small parties and were driven off." None reached the capital, but some bombs fell on the south coast.

The British long range guns opened up on the German-occupied French coast shortly before dawn. Fire blazed from the quayside of Calais harbor. German batteries replied with four salvos of shells at 20-minute intervals. Later they opened fire on the Dover area.

British bomber pilots reported pounding German gun emplacements near Cap Gris Nez during the night and also attacking the French and Belgian coastlines and industrial Germany.

German raiders came in long single files in the opposition direction over the stormy English channel, notably dropping oil bombs which started fires in the center of London and the shipping and shipbuilding section of Liverpool.

A communique declared the German attacks "spread over many parts of the country" but took their heaviest toll in lives lost and homes smashed in London's packed residential sections and suburbs.

The air ministry report of RAF attacks on the German long range gun positions, the "invasion ports," and into Germany withheld details of the raids because "pilots' reports of the damage have not yet been fully examined."

Railway switching yards, oil plants and aluminum works were among the objectives, the government said.

Observers said the 23rd consecu-

EVACUATION: Berlin Acts To Get Children Out Of City

(By International News Service)

BERLIN—Germany today set in motion a plan for optional evacuation of children from air-raided areas of the Reich.

Announcement of the plan was made after residents of Berlin once more spent nearly two hours in air raid shelters, although no bombs were dropped upon the capital.

The evacuation plan will affect areas in which parents feel the health of children may be injured.

It was stressed that the plan is in no way compulsory and leaves the decision up to parents alone.

Those who cannot afford to pay for transfer and maintenance of their children in areas not raided by British planes will be given necessary financial assistance by the Nazi relief organization, it was stated.

Authorities said the measure in no way implies necessity for any evacuation, especially from Berlin, but is aimed to ease the mind of parents regarding the welfare of their children.

Authentic German circles declared that rumors of a general evacuation were circulated largely by "well-meaning but over-

ACCUSER: Italian Paper Says U. S. Aid Is 'War Act'

(By United Press)

ROME—The most widely circulated newspaper in Italy, the authoritative Corriere Della Sera of Milan, today charged that United States aid to Great Britain constituted "an act of war."

The newspaper charged that President Roosevelt was employing hypocritical tactics in an effort to win a third term and that his promises to keep the United States out of war were "pure electoral tactics."

The attack coincided with the return here of Count Galeazzo Ciano, foreign minister, from Berlin where he signed the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo military alliance. Ramon Serrano Suner, Spain's special envoy, is expected here shortly, possibly to negotiate a pact establishing Spain's place in the new axis "order."

The newspaper article centered first on the deal whereby the United States gave Britain 50 over-age destroyers in return for western hemisphere defense bases.

"Now it's announced," said the paper, "that the United States will give half its flying fortresses (bombing planes) to Britain. Again the dealer isn't a private

Widow's Spending Distracting

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"My sister and I are worried crazy over mother. She is throwing away the insurance money left her by Dad like the traditional drunken sailor. They were married over twenty-five years, and there is no denying that Dad was close - close as the bark on a tree. We had a dreadful time to get the necessaries of life, and had to resort to that rotten scheme of charging things and selling them to our relatives.

"Now mother has inherited $25,000 life insurance, and never having had a cent to call her own before, she's acting as if it were about twenty-five million. She buys everything. Her mourning is startling, all white, veil and all. A young gigolo hangs round, trying to sell her a house which we can't afford to buy. If we girls attempt to talk sense to her, she either flies in a fury or bursts into tears. We are at our wits' end.

WORRIED DAUGHTER."

If men would only realize that the money they scrimp and toil to leave their wives slips like water through fingers that have always been empty of ready cash, they would try to teach their wives the value of money by giving them a little cash to handle.

Who has not been pitiably amused by the spectacle of a widow running amok through her life insurance, imagining the end of it will never be reached. Like a child with his first quarter turned loose in a candy store, she buys everything in sight.

The white mourning, of which this daughter speaks, is a sample of her state of mind. She's not exactly rejoicing in the death of her miserly husband or the money that's suddenly come to her to squander, but she needs startling clothes as a symbol. White mourning does it. It produces a stop, look and listen on the part of every beholder. It's challenging. "Who is that?" the passerby will ask taking a second glance.

"Don't you know? That's Mrs. So and So. Her husband died two months ago."

The house to which the daughter refers is only another symptom. Of course she feels she can afford it. She can afford anything as long as she's able to write checks.

What's to be done about it? The daughters say she flies into a tantrum or bursts into tears when they attempt to reason with her. The reasoning must be done by a man, because she has always been held in leash by her penny-pinching husband. Women don't count in her life. They're the material of which slaves are made, just as she has been kept down.

If there is any brother or man holding a responsible position in the family connections, he's the one to reason with the spendthrift. In cases like this, I have actually known a kindly president of a bank to call the squanderer into his private office and tell her that insurance money has a way of coming to an end, and that she just must cut out spending, or else.

A few well-chosen suggestions of what happens to middle-aged women without a penny may turn the spendthrift's thoughts into sensible channels. There really isn't anything for the daughters to do but hunt up some man — preferably a Dutch uncle—who may be able to turn the trick. What would you do if you had a mother, spending her way to the poorhouse? Let me have your solution.

Once upon a time a famous artist made the statement that, in his belief, a beautiful figure is a greater asset than a beautiful face.

We challenge that declaration. An attractive silhouette is the ambition of every woman. Carried splendidly it conveys an impression of spirit and grace. But it is the countenance that makes the strong appeal. It carries messages to those who have the sense to read. It expresses intelligence, graciousness, tolerance, tenderness, sympathy, all the pleasing qualities.

There's no reason why the warrior in the cause of beauty should not attain qualifications along both lines, cultivate a figure that is a credit to the sisterhood, put up a portrait that is a treat to the eye. There are great possibilities in complexion helps, coiffure arrangements have never been beaten for charm and becomingness.

A woman doesn't have to be very smart to realize that she must do everything possible to keep in step with the modern parade. But certain "musts" appear to be too much bother, especially the simple matter of keeping muscles resilient and firm, carrying herself as a spirited, healthy woman should. She can close her eyes when the cream puffs are passed, she can spend hours in reducing emporiums. But to pull herself up, keep her chest lifted, breathe properly and step lightly all that's just too much of a chore.

Beautifying is an all around occupation. It's not much good having a trim waistline and beautiful arms and shapely shoulders if the face is lemonated.

Defects catch the eye before good points are noticed. Almost all beauty griefs can be cured or overcome. All we have to do is to see ourselves clearly as we are and then get active. The reason poor posture is so common is that we are only half aware of it. A full-length mirror in every home would soon make all of us walk like queens; we couldn't bear the sight of our slumpy shapes.

There's no sense wondering which means the most, the face or the figure. The thing to do is to keep both in tip-top form, have all one's beauty kettles boiling.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I'll just transfer my things to the smaller closet," Lillian said when we had come into her room.

"You'll do no such thing," I retorted hotly, but she threw up her hand protestingly.

"That Alphonse-Gaston stuff is dated," she said teasingly. "Besides, use your bean, old dear. I have very few things here. Indeed I shan't need half of the smaller closet, so if you have any overflow, you know where to pile it."

She was working as she spoke, taking down her belongings and handing part of them to me while she transferred other garments to the smaller closet. I knew that she was right in her estimate of the comparative size of our possessions, so I made no further protest, and, working together we soon had the larger closet empty, and the room in order.

"Now, let's bring in your things," she said, and we went back to my room, finding Katherine putting the finishing touches on an extremely "tailored" bed.

"D'ya think that will suit 'is Royal 'highness?" she demanded, with a wave of her hand toward the finished bed.

"Perfect!" we exclaimed together, and Katherine picked up an armful of my clothing from the chair where I had spread it.

"I'll help you get these things where they belong," she said, and the next few minutes saw every trace of my clothing and small personal belongings removed from the room, and it was put in order for Philip Veritzen's occupancy. I had brought fresh flowers for Edith in the morning, and they were still in prime condition, so I changed the water in the vases, and saw to it that the carafe was filled with icewater, and the morning newspaper placed beside the books and late magazines on the table.

"The perfect hostess, also guest room," Katherine gibed, smiling affectionately at me, but Lillian tucked my hand under her arm.

"You can't afford to waste any more time here," she said "It's almost time for dear Felipe to come barging in, and you must be downstairs to meet him.

"Thank you for reminding me," I said with emphasis, and hurried with her to the lower floor.

"Father said he would telephone the guards to let Philip through the gates." I told her when we had reached the library, "and he also said he would tell them to telephone us when he arrived, before they opened the gates for the car."

"Your father's a canny citizen," she said. "With those precautions, Phil won't come barging in on us without our having time to get our smiles of welcome firmly taped with adhesive to our maps. But I think you'd better stick around this listening post. He's likely to appear any minute, isn't he?"

I looked at my wristwatch and nodded.

"It's five minutes till the hour he named for his arrival," I said.

"Then you have just five minutes to relax," she retorted, "for he'll be here, right on the second. I know Phil. But I do wonder what's happened to make him so anxious to see your father all of a sudden."

"From what you said upstairs," I ventured hesitatingly, "I thought you at least surmised what his errand might be."

"Surmising isn't knowing," she said, "but my guess is as good as the next one's, I'm thinking. If you like I'll pass it on to you."

"I'd rather you wouldn't," I said hurriedly, "although I'll admit I'm consumed with curiosity about his possible connection with this affair. But, frankly, at this time, I don't want to learn anything prejudicial to Philip Veritzen. Because he finally gave Mary her rightful due, and put Olina in her place, I've just begun to lose the very real loathing with which I've been regarding him. I'd like to remain in that comfortable state for a little while at least."

"I don't believe he's contemplating any new devilment," she said comfortably. "But he may be trying to avert the reaping of some whirlwind he has sowed in the past. There's the house phone now. Nice new dollies to dough-nuts 'mit beeg holes' that's Phil now."

Peggy gets the lights, and Danny takes up fighting, partly for Peggy, partly to finance his brother Eddie (Kennedy) in music.

Peggy, craving fame, keeps Danny dangling. Danny, craving Peggy, takes on a champ and gets the daylight knocked out of him—in a super movie fight. Peggy gets wise at last, and their fade-out is happy. Eddie, a symphone success, is on the high road, too. Googie (Kazan) hits the high places but winds up with a load of lead. And Old Man Manhattan, he just keeps jangling along.

There's a pile of sentiment — some of it too talky- in the thing. Frank Craven duplicates his "Our Town" role as the Old Timer who periodically reflects, prophesies and philosophizes. It's unfortunate even though "City of Conquest" used the idea (in the book) before Thornton Wilder did in his play.

Cagney is topnotch, especially in the exacting later scenes. Sheridan is softer than usual and very appealing. Kazan and Miss Patrick turn in the neatest character work. And young Kennedy, as the musician, is a lad to watch, despite some of the soul-of-the-city speeches handed him.

"Strike Up the Band," Screenplay by John Monks, jr. and Fred Finklehoffe. Directed by Busby Berkeley. Principals: Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland, Paul Whiteman, June Preisser, William Tracy, Larry Nunn, Margaret Early, Ann Shoemaker, Francis Pierlot.

This big musical has everything, which is too much. It has:

Judy, looking prettier, acting better, singing better than ever before; Mickey, wild on the drums and playing Andy Hardy only occasionally; a lot of bother about a high school band which Mickey wants to change into a swing group and does; a one-sided (Judy's side) romance with Mickey; a whimsical sequence in which animated front figures serve as an orchestra; enough jam and jive to satisfy the most rabid swingaroo; a couple of big Berkeley "production numbers," the last of which uses ALL the girls and ALL the sets and winds up, George M. Cohan-style, with Old Glory; Whiteman, playing and also delivering an impromptu essay on the importance of Rhythm; a couple of sob scenes, between boy and mother, annoyingly reminiscent of Andy Hardy's man-to-man talks with the judge, a few good gags and a lot of not-so-good dialogue, and much too much of everything.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

SHUTTING OUT AN HONOR

Many a contract is beaten because some low honor takes a trick for the defenders, a trick which could have been saved by more careful play. There is some one best way to play each combination of cards, in order to produce the greatest possible likelihood of success with it, and the players who have studied them do not lose many tricks in their manipulation. The expert knows a lot of such combinations intimately. Whenever they arrive, they are recognized as old friends. The average player has not the time to learn them all, but he can master certain underlying principles which will help him with a large number of combinations.

Basic factors operate with such combinations as the spade suits shown below, if the declarer is striving to take all of the tricks, granting plenty of entries into both his own hand and dummy.

	Declarer	Dummy
1.	♠ A K 10 6	♠ Q 9 5 4
2.	♠ A K 10 6	♠ Q 5 4 2
3.	♠ A K 6 5	♠ Q 10 5 4
4.	♠ A K Q 10	♠ 6 5 4 2
5.	♠ A K 10 8	♠ Q 9 7 6

We have all seen otherwise fair players misplay such simple combinations. The usual mistake is to finesse the 9 or 10 on the first or second round, and lose to a singleton or doubleton J. For protection against a singleton, a first trick should be taken with a high honor with every one of those combinations, one of those in declarer's own hand, because that still leaves him another high one and his original finessing position. With No. 4, a second high one also should be taken in that hand.

With No. 1, a second high trick should be taken in one hand or the other, depending on which defender the declarer thinks is more likely to have the J, as that protects him against a doubleton J before finessing. With No. 2 the second trick should be taken in dummy, preserving finessing chances the only way the finesse can be taken. For similar reasons, with No. 3, the second trick should be taken in declarer's hand.

With No. 5, after the first high trick, declarer should lead his 10, as some hapless player, who has heard about "covering an honor with an honor" may foolishly put a well-guarded J on it and thus prevent a guess. If the J is not played, take the Q and then lead the 9, if the next defender decides to cover, your guessing is over.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, October 1

A particularly lively and eventful day is the forecast made from a chain of swift-moving planetary operations. There is every prospect of advancement, promotion, preferment and favors from superiors, employers or those in authority. There are likely to be surprising and sudden developments in connection with large corporations, fraternal, political, diplomatic or humanitarian organizations. Legacies or litigation may bring satisfaction.

Those whose birthday it is may look for promotion, favors, tokens of esteem and appreciation at the hands of employers, superiors or others in place and power. Large corporations, secret societies or other powerful organizations may provide sudden and surprising benefits or opportunities.

A child born on this day may have not only brilliant intellect and creative faculties, but a phase of wisdom or insight of an intuitive or sub-conscious illumination fitting it for signal success in some cultural place or profession.

Preventing Tooth Decay

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

The first teeth are formed in the jaw before the baby's birth. The mother's diet during pregnancy and while nursing the baby determines the soundness of the baby's teeth while they are being laid down in soft tissue.

Foods for the pregnant mother adequate in vitamins and minerals as recommended by Mendenhall are: "1 quart of milk, one egg, one raw vegetable salad, such as lettuce, celery and tomato, one citrus fruit, one cooked green vegetable, two slices entire wheat or graham bread or 1½ ounces whole grain cereal. If a helping of lean meat, potato, and three servings of butter and cereal or bread are added to these foods, a diet sufficient in calories and adequate except possibly in iodine, will be furnished a normal mother.

"More fruit and vegetables may be substituted in place of carbohydrates if the energy needs to be curtailed." Some experts would add one-half teaspoonful of cod liver oil. However, every pregnant mother should have her diet checked by a physician.

As a preventive of tooth decay (caries), Dr. Park has written: "I believe that if pregnant women received ample well-balanced diets in which green vegetables were abundantly supplied and cow's milk was regularly taken, and kept a sufficient part of their time in the open air and sun, and if their infants were placed in the direct rays of the sun for a part of each day and were fed cod liver oil for the first two or three years of life, more could be accomplished in regard to the eradication of caries of the teeth than in all other ways put together, and that rickets would be abolished from the earth."

Dr. H. Kent Tenny, jr., in that fine new little book, "Let's Talk About Your Baby," says:

"Now that he is getting enough teeth for cutting and grinding operations, it is well to encourage him in their proper use. . . . But you will find that civilized teeth are not used hard enough. Among the Eskimos, who use their teeth for just about everything, including the softening up of frozen boots, tooth decay is very rare.

"So give your baby things like zwieback to chew and later on encourage him to eat toast, rye crisp, and crackers rather than soft bread, and teach him to chew his meat vigorously and thoroughly. As to cleaning the teeth it is well to start the habit early and remember that it is the grinding surfaces that need most attention. When he is two and a half or three years old take him to a dentist who appreciates the importance of children's dentistry, and thereafter keep in frequent touch with him."

The Myers children began going to the dentist when they were two. Before ten they were making and keeping their own dental appointments.

It is important also that the child have proper diet during the years before the permanent teeth erupt. Faegre and Anderson in "Child Care and Training" give a chart showing the average time of eruption of the various groups of temporary and permanent teeth.

A selected list of books for expectant parents may be had by writing me at 235 East 45th St., N. Y. City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

AVIATION NEWS—

PROPOSED U. S. GRANT CHEERS CITY'S AIRMEN

$186,000 Budgeted for Port Would Boom Activities at Mansfield Field.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

The war in Europe has a silver lining—that is as far as Mansfield is concerned.

Airmen here were cheered this week with the announcement by the government that it proposes to spend $186,000 on the municipally-owned port.

The proposal is still in early stages and it will probably be some time before the political red tape is unravelled and actual construction work is started.

But it is something for Mansfielders to look forward to—paved runways, boundary lights and beacons for night flying—and transports gliding in for landing, linking the city with the rest of the nation through the network of highways charted in the sky.

The New Deal has been too busy with other matters the past few years to go about airport development systematically, but it has apparently recognized at last that airports are in the same class with highways built under the federal highway system.

Under the plan being discussed by the Civil Aeronautics bureau in Washington, about 4,000 ports in the nation will receive some $500,000,000 in improvements with about $15,000,000 to be spent in Ohio. This should go a long way toward bringing airports on a par with roads and harbors.

More about proposed improvements at the Mansfield port will be disclosed this week to local port officials.

Jean DuBuque, Columbus, regional CAA airways inspector and State Director of Aeronautics Earl A. Johnson are expected here to talk over the proposed project with officers of the Richland county chapter of the National Aeronautical association.

One of the things to be talked about, James R. Harrington, airport manager said, will be a $40,000 improvement project planned by the National Youth administration for the field and just what part of the work will tie in with the government project.

Another thing airport officials want to straighten out is Mansfield's classification.

Dispatches from Washington said that despite improvements, the Mansfield port would remain a class one field. Johnson has recommended the improvements to boost the rating of the port to class three, that would place it on a level with Akron and Dayton. Class three ports specifications call for all paved runways and first class lighting—both of which are included for the city.

NAA officials have received the list of students successful in their examinations during the recent CAA ground school and are arranging for a dinner-meeting of the chapter at which time the certificates of aeronautical knowledge will be awarded to those who passed.

It is expected that the meeting honoring the students will be held within the next two weeks after which flight training for nine boys and a girl will get under way at the port.

Congratulations to George Case, original class of 10 who took up the Civilian Pilot training when it was inaugurated here last spring. Case won his wings the past week by successfully passing his exam.

And Richard Maxwell made his first flight solo Saturday. He is the fourth of the five alternates in the class to take the air alone for maneuvers.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jones purchased a new plane this week. It is a new Luscombe Silvaire and will be delivered to Mansfield in about two weeks.

Jones plans to go to the factory in Trenton, N. J. and fly it through. Plans are under way by a group at the port to fly the fleet of five Luscombes to Akron the day he arrives and escort him back to Mansfield in formation.

American Airlines which flies over Mansfield several times daily on its Cleveland to Cincinnati run inaugurated a new evening flight this week. It's a south-bound flight passing over municipal airport about 6:30 p. m. The trip is a speedy one too, leaving Cleveland at 6 p. m. and arriving in the Queen city an hour and 23 minutes later.

Screen Rockne Cheers Hero

David Van Wallace, who was invalided by a childhood accident but has courageously continued his studies, is cheered by Pat O'Brien as the screen star visits Notre Dame, where Van Wallace is an honor student. With them is David's mother. O'Brien went to the South Bend, Ind., school for location work on his picture about the late Notre Dame coach, Knute Rockne.

PARTY LEADERS TO BE CALLED

They'll Be Asked to Testify When Senate Group Checks On Campaign Costs.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Representatives of the Democratic and Republican national committees will be asked to appear before the senate campaign committee next Friday to discuss the question of financial limitations imposed on campaign costs by the Hatch act.

Announcing this last night, Chairman Gillette (D.-Iowa) of the senate committee said, "It's my personal belief that the federal law now fixes an absolute limit of $3,000,000 on both collections and outlays."

Under this interpretation, the senator said that if a committee had an old deficit of $500,000 or $1,000,000 and collected funds and paid this off, that it would be limited to $2,500,000 or $2,000,000 for the present campaign.

Some other senators are known to regard the $3,000,000 limitation as applying only to expenditures on the presidential campaigns now in progress. Some lawyers have contended that each national organization formed to support a presidential candidate has a separate limit of $3,000,000 in addition to those on national part committees.

During the day Gillette telegraphed representatives of two Willkie organizations to appear here for the Friday session to explain finances. The message went to Leo Casey of the "Democrats for Willkie" and C. W. Davison of the "Independent Business Men's committee," both located in New York City.

A subcommittee of the senate group will open public hearings here Tuesday forenoon on complaints of "irregularities in voting lists" at Wilmington, Del.

Congress Starts Study of New Excess Profits Tax Bill

RE-DRAFT OF MEASURE UP IN BOTH HOUSES

Action Expected in House By Tuesday and In Senate on Following Day.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Congress put a $1,000,000,000 excess profits tax bill at the top of its calendar today after a senate-house committee finished re-drafting the measure to include a boost in the normal corporation income tax rate from the present 20.9 to 24 per cent.

The income tax increase would be in addition to the 25 to 50 per cent excess profits levy provided in the bill and, like the latter, would apply to 1940 corporation income.

Special lower income tax rates for corporations earning less than $25,000 would not be affected by the income tax increase.

Final agreement on the legislation, which is part of the defense program, was reached yesterday at an unusual Sunday session of the conference committee appointed to compose differences between the senate and house, which approved the bill in different forms.

Senator Harrison (D-Miss.), conference chairman, announced that the house would call up the agreement Tuesday for approval, with the senate probably following suit the next day.

The measure may become law by a stroke of President Roosevelt's pen this week-end, because the administration is anxious to make effective immediately two provisions designed to speed the defense program.

One of these would permit industries to deduct from their taxable income the entire cost of new facilities completed for defense purposes after June 10, 1940. These deductions would be at the rate of 20 per cent a year over a five-year period.

The other would suspend, during the indefinite period of the excess profits tax, the present 8 and 7 per cent limitations on profits from warships and military aircraft.

In addition to these provisions and the new taxes, the legislation would create a new system of government insurance, purchasable at low rates by draftees, national guardsmen on active duty and other members of the military and naval establishments. Premiums were estimated at slightly in excess of the 66 cents per thousand per month paid by 1917-18 soldiers and sailors.

Bucket Brigade Of Farmers Fails To Put Out Blaze

MT. GILEAD—Despite the efforts of a bucket brigade, a barn on the farm of Murray Cook, five miles southeast of here, was destroyed last night by fire. Loss was estimated at $5,000.

Believed to have started by spontaneous combustion, the blaze destroyed the entire building including 30 tons of hay, five tons of soy beans and 20 bushels of seed wheat.

A team of horses was trapped in the burning structure and could not be removed because of the intense heat. Considerable farm machinery was also destroyed. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

Dies Finds Fraud, Forgery In Red Petitions

Mrs. Lester Edgerton, who lives on a farm west of Mansfield, was scratching her head today over the strange antics of a Grimes Golden apple tree on her property. Yesterday while walking in her orchard she discovered the tree in blossom, after it had shown no signs of bearing fruit all summer. The tree should have blossomed five months ago, she said.

General hospital officials today marked down a new record in their birth report files. With the birth of a baby daughter to Mr. and Mrs. William Lanzendorfer, 34 Orchard street, the number of births for the month of September reached the 100 mark this morning. The most babies to be born during any previous month in the history of the hospital was 84. This figure was chalked up last July.

The secret is out and Dr. C. H. Bell is taking a lot of kidding about it. Two weeks ago the physician began taking flying lessons at municipal airport. He wanted to keep it from his friends and family. So, for the sake of convenience he was listed on the airport records as Robert Taylor. When inquisitive visitors saw the name on the flight chart, inquiries revealed his true identity. Now he's taking a lot of ribbing about his alias.

Two Republicans who live on the Park avenue west road claim this story is true and they say they can produce other witnesses if necessary. A big spider web in the garden at the home of Charles Tither, Park avenue west, had the name of "Willkie" woven into it. When an object dropped into the web and destroyed it, the ambitious spider wove another which also had the G. O. P. presidential candidate's name clearly outlined in it.

COUNTY TOTAL HITS $401,387

Sales Tax Collections Here 16 Per Cent Ahead of State's Average.

Richland county contributed $401,387 to the state's $34,600,000 sales tax fund to Sept. 15 this year, a report compiled by State Treasurer Don H. Ebright showed today.

The county's collections to that date were 16 per cent ahead of the corresponding period last year. The average increase in the state was 12 per cent.

Ebright predicted that sales tax receipts in the state this year will total more than $50,000,000 which will help finance schools and operation of county, city, and township governments.

Representative of the weekly increase in the county's collections so far this year were the collections for the second week of September which amounted to $11,841 as compared to $8,516 for the corresponding week last September, a gain of nearly 40 per cent.

Predicts Normal Wheat And Potato Harvest For Nazis

BERLIN — (AP) — Walter Darre, minister of agriculture, declared today that Germany's war year bread grains harvest would be only two percent under the peacetime average and would "ensure the stability of bread rations in Germany for a long time to come."

He put the 1940 grain yield at 903,000,000 bushels.

He said Germany would have a bumper crop of potatoes, her great staple, estimating it at 2,203,000,000 bushels.

Darre pictured Germany's food situation in general as fully satisfactory and said fat and meat rations could remain unchanged throughout the winter.

He asserted that "there will be no special difficulties to overcome" in the occupied countries.

"The food situation there is badly underestimated abroad," he continued. "If some French towns should suffer hunger next winter—which I don't expect—it would only be their own fault."

He criticized "the laziness" of French agriculture in general.

Nine new cases were reported—two in Cuyahoga county, and one each in Summit, Butler, Warren, Lawrence, Pickaway, Fayette and Licking. These were more than offset by release of earlier cases from the active list.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS DEATH OF COOPER, CIRCUS STORY AUTHOR

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — The death by hanging of Courtney Ryley Cooper ended on a puzzling note the career of a noted author of high adventure and crime stories.

The 53-year-old writer, whose enthusiasm for circuses earned him the title of "Circus Fan No. 1," was found hanging by a rope from a pipe in a hotel closet early yesterday. Detective Caswell Jacobs said he had committed suicide.

Friends said he had been in a state of nervous exhaustion from overwork. His wife, the former Genevieve R. Furey of Los Angeles, said Cooper apparently had been dejected because the Federal Bureau of Investigation and other Washington authorities had shown no interest in information he had obtained in Mexico relating to German fifth column activities.

B. E. Sackett, special agent in charge of the FBI in New York, said neither J. Edgar Hoover, FBI chief, or any other member of the organization had talked with Cooper about the Mexican matter.

The author was a friend of Hoover and had written several books on crime and criminals.

Among his best-known books were "Lions 'n' Tigers 'n' Everything," "Annie Oakley," "The White Desert," "The Last Frontier," "Caged," and "Pioneers."

He also wrote several screen scenarios, including "Weary River," and "White Cargo."

Funeral services were scheduled tomorrow.

FINDINGS MADE IN COUNTY TOLD BY PROSECUTOR

Marriott Says No Forgeries Here But Some Claimed Misrepresentation.

Widespread fraud and forgeries in the circulation and signing of Communist party petitions in Ohio had been uncovered today by the Dies committee on un-American activities, Clerk Robert T. Stripling of the committee, reported to state officials.

At the same time, Prosecutor G. W. Marriott of Richland county said his investigation of two petitions circulated here showed there were no forgeries, although a number of the signers told him the petitions were misrepresented to them and they did not know what they were signing.

"I found no evidence of forgery," Marriott said, "and there is no way to tell whether the circulators of the petitions actually misrepresented them, or the signers misinterpreted the petitions."

He added that several persons told him they thought they were signing petitions for the Bigelow pension plan or to get bigger old-age pensions.

"Probably some of them did sign without knowing what they were signing, but that often happens, for there are people who sign anything for some one they know," he commented.

A belated denial of Communistic sympathies came to The News-Journal today from Mrs. Bernice M. Warren, Mansfield, who is now in El Paso, Texas.

"My name was on the list of those who signed, but the petition I signed was represented to me as one favoring the Bigelow pension plan," she said. "I was misinformed as to its contents, and I am not a Communist."

In his report, Clerk Stripling of the Dies committee said replies to a questionnaire sent thousands of persons who signed the Communist petitions disclosed "the same frauds discovered in preparation of petitions in many other states.

"Hundreds of letters have been returned with the notation that the persons to whom they were addressed cannot be found, while many other persons claim misrepresentation or forgery of their names," Stripling added.

So many names were ruled off the petitions in Ohio that the petitions lacked enough signatures to place the Communist ticket on the November ballot. Nine of 52 signatures obtained in Richland county were found illegal.

Reds Feel They Have Even Chance of Winning Series

Three Stars Hurt

Lombardi, Frey, Ripple on Injured List; Hurlers Hold Advantage.

By GAYLE TALBOT

CINCINNATI —(AP)—Providing one of their ace pitchers doesn't fall down an elevator shaft between now and Wednesday, the Cincinnati Reds still feel they have at least an even chance of beating the Detroit Tigers in the world series.

* * *

The National league champions are a pretty blue bunch, however, from Manager Will McKechnie right on down. The series of injuries that has struck the team in recent days has taken a lot of starch out of them.

Two of their regulars, catcher Ernie Lombardi and second baseman Lonnie Frey, cannot now be counted on for any effective play against Detroit, and there are grave fears that Jim Ripple, the team's left fielder, will not be ready for the opening game.

Lombardi is only limping around on his torn ankle. He might possibly be behind the plate when the Reds and Tigers clash Wednesday at Crosley field, but the Reds' power hitter will be far below his best.

Frey, his toe broken by a falling water cooler, likewise hopes to be in there. Frey ordinarily is a more dangerous batter than Eddie Joost, his replacement, and hitting is what the Reds will need.

They don't know about Ripple yet. A ball whacked him on his throwing wrist yesterday, and it was puffing up fast last night. Ripple has done some valuable hitting for the Reds since they got him late in the season, and if he and Frey both go out, the locals will have only one left-hand batter left, Ival Goodman to face Detroit's array of right-hand pitchers.

The fans, long since having forgiven the Reds their four-straight defeat by the Yankees last autumn, have bought out Crosley field for the games here, with choice seats being hawked as high as $50 a copy.

The uncertainty now surrounding the locals probably will hike the odds against them higher than 7-to-10 quoted when Detroit clinched the American league pennant last week in Cleveland. About all the Reds would have left with Lombardi, Frey and Ripple riding the bench would be their superb pitching staff, and that is only nominal insurance against a set of sluggers like the Tigers.

Having scored their 100th victory in their final game against Pittsburgh yesterday (113), the Reds devoted today to complete rest, awaiting the arrival of their series rivals. Both teams will have their only pre-series workouts tomorrow. The forecaster threatens rain for Wednesday. If that happens, the entire series simply will be advanced one day.

The consensus of baseball men was that the championship likely would go the limit of seven games.

* * *

Rival pitchers in Wednesday's openers likely will be Paul Derringer for the Reds and Buck Newsom for Detroit, though neither manager will commit himself.

Mayer Wins 1st Title

Golfer Shoots Par-Shattering Rounds to Cop County Tournament Crown.

SLASHING seven strokes off par for the 36 holes, Joe Mayer won The News-Journal's first annual Richland county golf tournament at Possum Run Sunday with a nifty 137 total.

Smashing out a 69 on the morning round, Mayer hopped into the lead and never trailed as he added a 68 on the second 18.

His total was eight strokes under Pete Linster who wound up in the runner-up position with a 145. Twenty-four county shotmakers participated in the event after several withdrew when their opening nine-hole total proved too high.

Copping third place was Vin Malaska while Frank Cipris came in fourth and John Kleshinski fifth. Malaska had a 146 Cipris a 147 and Kleshinski a 148.

Linster in taking the second position turned in rounds of 75 and 70. His final 18-hole score was two under par.

Mayer's morning card was three strokes under par and his afternoon total four under. It marks the second time this year he has shot sub-par golf to win a championship. He did it recently in taking the Possum Run club crown.

Malaska, four over par for his first 18, came back in splendid shape with a 70 to edge out Cipris. The latter had a 71-73, while Malaska collected a 76-70.

Art VanAuker, who shared 11th place with Ted Etzel in the standings, got off to a rousing start on the first nine, but faded in the stretch. He carded a brilliant 33 on that round in the morning, but finished the 18 with a 71. He had an 81 to take a 152

Also sharing a portion of the spotlight was Grant Hanawalt. Shooting a 74 in the morning, Grant started clicking on the first nine in the afternoon. His card showed nine straight fours and then he scored a 79 to end up with Joe Scodova in eighth place with a 151.

Mayer was presented the News-Journal trophy and 18 other golfers shared in the merchandise prizes awarded by Mansfield merchants

Mansfield Club Closes Season With 6-3 Win

Frances Clark Stars as Girls Whip Grafton.

An impressive 6 to 3 triumph over the Grafton Merchants girls team brought the Mansfield Merchants girls' club's 1940 season to a close at North Lake park yesterday.

The Mansfield team, which recently won the state girls' softball tournament championship and reached the quarter-finals of the national meet at Detroit, piled up an early lead to register its 22nd win of the year.

With Frances Clark pitching six-hit ball, the club encountered trouble with the invaders in one inning—the six when Grafton scored three times.

Coach Forest L. "Doc" Daugherty's club scored a run in the initial frame, added three in the third and ended its scoring with a pair of markers in the fourth. The Mansfielders collected 12 hits. Clark fanned six and issued two walks.

Pacing the Mansfield attack were Clark and Mary Holda. Both feminine stars pounded out three singles apiece. The game was played as a benefit affair to raise funds for a banquet for the Mansfield team and its coaches and manager.

Ontario Trips Shiloh Lions In Final Tilt

Hammon's Homer Aids Club In 5 to 4 Victory.

A three-run rally in the eighth frame, climaxed by Hammon's home run with a mate on base, enabled the Ontario baseball team to bring its 1940 season to a close by edging the Shiloh Lions by a 5 to 4 count at Shiloh yesterday.

Trailing by a 4 to 2 margin going into the eighth the Ontario club secured four hits in sending the three runs home. Pat Patterson, who limited the losers to eight hits, hurled shutout ball the rest of the way to receive credit for the victory.

* * *

Both teams scored once in the first and Ontario forged ahead, 2 to 1, in the fifth, but Shiloh knotted the score in its half of that frame. Shiloh went ahead again with two runs in the sixth.

Herk Heckert and Hammon were the batting stars of the game. Hammon hit his home run and two singles, while Heckert collected a double and two singles.

Still Too Early To Predict College Football Powerhouses

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Without trying to detract from early accomplishments of such teams as Michigan, Boston College, Southern Methodist, Ohio State, Minnesota, Mississippi, Duke or Wake Forest, it's a good idea to remember that the 1940 football season is just getting under way.

* * *

There were enough big games over the week-end to make some fans forget that the championships won't be handed out for a couple of months.

* * *

Looking over the situation by sections, and remembering that another week may change the whole setup, here's how the races are going:

East: Boston College, on the strength of Saturday's 27-7 victory over Tulane, tops the list. The Eagles are idle this week.

Cornell opens against Colgate, 44-0 winner over Akron Saturday. Syracuse takes on tough Northwestern; Holy Cross meets Louisiana State, a 19-6 victim of Mississippi Saturday; and Princeton tackles Vanderbilt, which whipped Washington and Lee 19-0.

Pitt's Panthers, deflated by their 30-7 beating from Ohio State, face the Missouri Tigers, which won over St. Louis 40-26. Yale takes on Virginia, 32-0 victor over Lehigh, and Navy, after a close call against William and Mary, meets Cincinnati, Columbia, Harvard, Army, Penn and Villanova, among others, open with breathers.

Mid-West: The Big Ten and Big Six conference races start with Ohio State playing Purdue, 26-0 winner over Butler, and Kansas meeting Iowa State, which dropped a 14-7 decision to Denver.

Minnesota, triumphant 19-14 over Washington, runs into Nebraska. Michigan, which routed California 41-0, encounters Michigan State. Indiana opens against Texas, which walloped Colorado 39-7; Wisconsin and Marquette get off together while Iowa plays South Dakota and Illinois meets Bradley. Oklahoma, a Big Six power, plays Oklahoma Aggies and Kansas State goes into the Rockies to face Colorado. Notre Dame opens against the College of the Pacific.

South: The Duke-Tennessee battle is the week's big feature. The Blue Devils, southern conference champions, walloped V. M. I. 23-0 in their opener and the Vols beat Mercer 49-0. Georgia vs. South Carolina and Washington and Lee vs. Kentucky are other intercircuit games.

Southwest: Southern Methodist bore out pre-season praise by conquering U. C. L. A. 9-6 Friday night, and now tapers off against North Texas Teachers. North Texas held Baylor to a 27-20 count Saturday. Meanwhile the first conference game sends Texas Christian, an impressive 41-6 winner over Centenary, against Arkansas, 38-0 victor over Central Oklahoma Teachers. Rice opens against Centenary.

Rocky Mountain: Utah, which took a 31-13 drubbing from Santa Clara, begins the conference season against Brigham Young.

* * *

Pacific Coast: California's next opponent is St. Mary's, which tuned up with a 16-0 win over Gonzaga Sunday. Southern California was held to a 14-14 tie by Washington State last week and will meet Oregon State, 41-0 winner over Idaho. Stanford, which scored 27-0 against San Francisco, faces Oregon in another conference game.

BUDDY WALKER TACKLES PATSY PERRONI TONIGHT

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Jack (Buddy) Walker, Columbus negro heavyweight, squares off tonight in a 10-round bout against Patsy Perroni of Canton, the only fighter he hasn't beaten in 29 professional starts with a possible match with Max Baer hanging in the balance.

Fight Promoter Al Haft said he had offered Baer, former world heavyweight champion, $25,000 to meet the winner of tonight's bout. The match, if signed, would be held this fall at the state fairgrounds stadium, Haft said.

TIGERS ARE FAVORITES TO COP WORLD SERIES

NEW YORK—(INS)—The Detroit Tigers were 7 to 10 favorites to cop the world series on the books of Broadway's betting commissioner Jack Doyle today. Quotations on the opening game were 4 to 5 against both the Tigers and the Cincinnati Reds.

The figures against the Tigers copping four straight games were 7 to 1 as compared with 8 to 1 against Cincinnati last year.

Tygers Play Quakers

Mansfield High Seeks 4th Straight Grid Win Over New Philadelphia.

By CHARLES MARTIN
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

THERE is one thought in the minds of the Mansfield high Tygers today as they swarmed back to the practice field.

It is to beat New Philadelphia high under the lights at Stadium field Friday night.

Mansfield is riding along on a three-game winning streak and it doesn't intend to have the Quakers place a blemish on the record.

The Tygers, who have improved greatly in the last two weeks, will enter the melee as a slight favorite, but Snyder and his youngsters are not taking the contest lightly.

New Philadelphia, weakened this year by the graduation of "Bronko" Reese, pulverizing fullback, has dropped three games, the worst setback coming from powerful Lorain by a 54 to 0 score last week.

Mentor Snyder's aggregation played fine ball in beating Elyria last Friday despite several fumbles, one of which paved the way for the Elyria touchdown.

One of the highlights of the Elyria tilt was the tight aerial defense employed by the Tygers. Numerous times Elyria tried long passes, but the Mansfield club, led by Elroy "Lightning" Jones, batted them down.

Snyder this week will concentrate on a passing attack. The Tygers have not been able to connect on aerials.

"I am seeking to develop a top-notch passer. Martin Henke and Adam Brandt can heave the ball, but we'll work on accuracy," Snyder said today.

"The club played better ball against Elyria than in previous games, and if they continue to progress we'll give some of the better clubs a surprise," the coach stated.

* * *

Henke, who suffered an ankle injury in the Cambridge game, saw service part of the setto Friday, and will be in readiness for full duty against the Quakers.

Indians Trip Detroit In Final Loop Game

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Oscar Vitt's departure today for his California home left the Cleveland Indian's managerial position in an enigma to baffle a mind reader.

The Indians scattered after clinching second place in the final American League standings by outlasting Detroit here yesterday in a 14-inning 3-to-2 anticlimax to the pennant fight.

Vitt then went to see his boss, president Alva Bradley. He came out smiling wistfully. Asked what he was going to do, he said:

"I can't say anything about that. I understand a decision will be reached at a meeting of the club's board of directors in the next few weeks."

Bradley said he was going to the Georgia coast for a rest and would have nothing to report until after the directors meet.

Most of the Indians gave Vitt a warm handshake and wished him luck. A few left without a word to the pilot whose removal they had asked in June.

"It's true I made mistakes," Vitt said, "but it's only human to err. Our big trouble was that we couldn't hit in the pinches.

"Clevelad fans deserve a pennant and throughout the season I did my best to reward them for their support. I am leaving for home with a clear conscience.

Grabbing both of Bob Feller's hands, he told the young pitching star, "I only regret that you didn't win 30 games. You certainly deserved victory in at least five games that were lost." (Feller won 27 and lost 11.)

There was a court hangover today from the dizzy final series of the season with Detroit. It grew out of the shower of vegetables from the crowd in the game which gave the Tigers the pennant.

A deputy constable called Catcher Birdie Tebbetts from the Detroit bench in the seventh inning yesterday and served a warrant charging assault and battery.

Carmen Guerra, 25, made the charge and sued Tebbetts for $5,000 damages, claiming he was not the fan who dropped a basket of tomatoes on Tebbet's head but that the catcher struck him as police dragged him out of the crowd.

The deputy possibly should be credited unofficially with an assist to the Indians, for when Tebbetts went back into the game he made a wild throw to third base which let two runs in.

Al Milnar pitched the entire 14 innings for Cleveland and yielded 10 hits. Paul Trout, Harold Newhouser and Freddy Hutchinson did the Tigers' mound chores.

* * *

In the 14th inning, Hutchinson made a wild throw, a balk, filled the bases and hit Beau Bell with a pitched ball, sending Roy Weatherly home with the winning run.

Louisville Needs Victory

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(INS)— The Louisville Colonels today were within one game of duplicating their feat of 1939—winning the right to represent the American association in the Little World series after finishing the regular season in fourth place.

The Colonels yesterday eked out a ninth-inning, 1-to-0 victory over the champion Kansas City Blues to give themselves a three-games-to-two advantage in the play-off series. Every game in the series has been decided by one run.

The Colonels got only one hit off Don Hendrickson until the ninth. Then, however, Chet Morgan doubled, Artie Parks walked, and Ernie Andres singled home the game's only marker.

Charley Wagner racked up his 12th straight win for the Colonels by allowing only six scattered singles.

The wool ignited, the fire spread to the picking and stock rooms, and before being brought under control caused damage to machinery and stock that was estimated at $10,500.

How Conscripts Will Look In Uniform

In training for trench warfare

Standing at salute with full field pack

Standing for inspection of full field kit

Mother and dad, here's how your conscriptee son will look in uniform as one of Uncle Sam's soldier boys. Lower left—carrying full field pack, standing at salute. Top left—in trench warfare maneuvers. That's a Garand, army's new rifle, he's handling. Right — standing for full field inspection. On cot are blankets, cateen, shelter pins and rope, shovel, dog rags, toilet articles, mess kit, helmet, rifle, gas mask, duffle bag, first aid kit, raincoat, bayonet and mosquito bar. And every item must be in its proper place. Pictures posed by Private Roy Bruch, Company G, Sixteenth infantry, in regular army, stationed at Governor's Island, New York.

THEATERS

Old and New Music.

Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland, leading a frolicksome juvenile group, provide music with laughs in "Strike Up the Band," showing at the Ohio. This is a gay musical romance of youth. Their adventures range from staging a comical travesty on old-time plays with "corny" songs, to smart ballroom work, modern song hits such as "Nobody" and "Our Love Affair," and a big climax in a radio studio where they win Paul Whiteman's prize.

From then on, gangsters, police and reporters turn the town upside down to find the money. Second attraction is "Sandy Is a Lady," starring Baby Sandy.

William Holden, Bonita Granville, Ezra Stone, Judith Barrett and Vaughan Glaser have the featured roles. Co-feature is "My Love Came Back," starring Olivia de Havilland and Jeffrey Lynn.

DEFENSE NOTE

Minute Men Organize Again At Lexington, Mass.

LEXINGTON, Mass. —(INS)— A modern organization of Minute Men—the Civilian Defense committee—is prepared to defend Lexington, "birthplace of American liberty" if needs be.

The Civilian Defense committee, which includes women as well as men on its rolls, was organized at the request of the selectmen who, after reading of details suffered by European democracies, decided defense committees were needed in every community.

Archibald R. Giroux, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, was appointed by the town fathers to organize townspeople for any emergency. So satisfactory was Giroux' work that the state Adjutant-General's office has requested that its general rules of operation be used as a model for other towns.

The selectmen, chairmen of town boards and committees as well as chairmen of various subcommittees of the defense group make up the executive committee of the defense organization. The executive committee has under it seven sub-committees: Promotion of enlistments; protection of persons and property; public utilities; subversive activities; transportation and food supplies; finance and public relations.

SEEKS CAREER

Torch Singer Libby Holman Eyes Metropolitan.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass. — (INS) — Libby Holman, sultry torch singer aspires to a career in the famous "Met"—but expects to be at least 90 years old before reaching that pinnacle.

She would like to be another Kirsten Flagstad, but she says, "that if I ever get to be that good, I will then be about 90 years old."

Meantime, singing for her music teacher, she wonders if her sultry voice will ever take on operatic timbre to make her jump out of the theater and go rushing to the Metropolitan for an audition.

She recently appeared in summer stock with the North Shore players, in the comedy called "The Greeks Had a Word for It."

RECRUITER HAS BUSINESS RUSH

Harassed By Everyone Except Real Army Rookies.

KANSAS CITY —(AP)— Lieut. Col. Fred McLogan, army recruiting officer, received the following report from a harassed recruiting sergeant at a Missouri branch office:

"Big rush this week of draft dodgers, floaters, highbrows wanting air corps only; flying cadets with eighth grade education; important citizens waiting information; preachers, doctors, lawyers, dentists, reserve officers; CCC plugs with administrative discharges; married men with and without kids; in fact, everything except good single men wanting enlistment in the line of the army."

RAISES $10,000

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa —(INS)— The most highly-prized dog in South Africa is the pedigree bulldog pup, H. M. S. Hardy, which its owner, Mr. H. Jackson-Lipkin, presented for sale at a theater here in aid of the Royal navy. The dog was sold by auction and realized the sum of $10,000.

ILLINOIS SPURS HEALTH DRIVE

Neighborhood Schools Keep Chicago Doctors Up on Late Developments.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — (U.P.) — To keep Chicago physicians well informed on methods of combating tuberculosis, the Chicago Tuberculosis Sanitarium is conducting a series of "neighborhood" schools for doctors.

Main purpose of the schools, according to the state health department, is to make certain that those physicians who do not have frequent contact with the disease will be able to recognize, diagnose, and treat a case if it is encountered.

"Gaining the distinction of medical specialist, which implies extraordinary skill in treatment of a particular disease or class of diseases, results more often from sheer volume of experience and diligence in study than from brilliance of mind," the report said.

"Most physicians," it said, "could become specialists in tuberculosis if there were patients enough to give each doctor a large experience with the disease. This is impossible because there are about 7,000 new cases reported annually in Illinois while there are about 12,000 doctors in the state.

"If evenly distributed among all physicians, each doctor would encounter a new patient about once in 18 months on the average. Since this is not so, a good many physicians may go for considerable periods without facing the problem of treating a patient with tuberculosis."

To keep Chicago doctors from becoming "rusty," it said, the municipal sanitarium has devised a system whereby experts from the institution select an area in the city with a high rate of incidence and make an X-ray survey of all the people, as nearly as practicable.

"This provides the specialist with excellent material concerning tuberculosis in the neighborhood," the department said. "The next step is to prepare a program of instruction for the physicians in the area."

A three-months course of four two-hour sessions a week is projected, and the private physicians are invited to register for the entire course. Classes are limited to 20 to personalize instruction.

To make the study course available to all physicians who wish to take advantage of it, the program is repeated routinely, four times a year, the state health department said.

BIG NEWS . . . IS GOOD NEWS
FOR ADVERTISERS!

A lot of thoughtful advertisers have been raising questions about the potency of newspaper advertising during "Big News" periods. When news interest shoots upward, do advertisers' opportunities decline? Do exciting headlines and dispatches cause people to pay less attention to the ads?

Current newspaper research indicates the opposite is true.

The Second World War certainly qualifies as "Big News." In the past ten months, this war has demonstrated three ways in which "Big News" affects newspaper reading.

First MORE PEOPLE READ NEWSPAPERS. A recent study made by The Bureau of Advertising reveals substantial circulation gains by newspapers in all parts of the country in May and June of this year over May and June of last year. (It was early in May that "Total War" began.) Naturally, the more news there is, and the more important it is, the more papers are bought and read. Partial news coverage by other media merely whets people's desire to get the WHOLE story . . . in newspapers.

Second, PEOPLE SPEND MORE TIME WITH THEIR NEWSPAPERS. War news or other "Big News" usually means ADDITIONAL reading . . . over and above the habitual reading of the local news, the regular departments, the continuing features, and the advertisements in the newspaper.

Third, and even more important, "Big News" tends to INCREASE, RATHER THAN DECREASE, THE READING OF NEWSPAPER ADS.

Evidence From All Angles Proves That "Big News" Is GOOD News For Advertisers

AIRCRAFTS PULL CUSTOMERS IN MARKET TODAY

Many Leading Issues Ignored In Trading; Bonds Show Select Improvement.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Aircrafts attracted customers in today's stock market, but many leaders were neglected.

Inclined to edge upward were Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber and N. Y. Central.

Selective improvement appeared in the bond division. Commodities were mixed.

Little speculative inspiration was found in the war news, brokers said.

Market encouragement was derived from the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said that while heavy orders identified with rearming still hold the spotlight in steel markets, expanding requirements of railroads, the automotive industry and miscellaneous consumers are important factors in sustaining activities in the hard metal field.

The review added that mill backlogs of most products are steady or heavier, as reflected in gradually lengthening deliveries on certain items.

OUT OF 'RED'

Rhode Island Keeps Books In Black Now.

PROVIDENCE, R. I. — (INS) — Rhode Island—the smallest state in the Union—has transposed its state ledger from "red" to "black."

For the 12-month period ending June 30, 1940, the state government recorded a free, unencumbered surplus of $502,621.55. The Republican regime of Governor William H. Vanderbilt began the fiscal year, July 1, 1939, with a $135,285.75 deficit.

Charles M. Sears, jr., Director of Co-ordination and Finance, who issued the report, added that the state's surplus and surplus reserves rose from $603,-202.60 to $2,360.57 in the fiscal year.

Increased revenue and reduced operating expenses were cited by Sears as the instruments in wiping out the 1939 deficit.

PRESIDENT EYES TRIP INTO OHIO

Expected to Inspect Dayton's Wright Field Next Week; Tours Maryland Today.

within his self-imposed limit of an overnight journey from Washington. Previously Mr. Roosevelt has visited the Norfolk, Va., area; the New England states; the Plattsburg - Ogdensburg, N. Y. area; Charleston, W. Va., and Philadelphia.

More of these quick trips are in the making for the final campaign month of October.

Next week probably will find Mr. Roosevelt in Ohio—at Wright field in Dayton, and possibly in Cincinnati. Also, the chief executive expects to visit the Pittsburgh area, and the week of Oct. 20 probably will find him in New York City making the postponed dedication of the $80,000,000 Brooklyn-Battery vehicular tunnel.

Col. John B. Rose, commander of the Aberdeen proving grounds, and a group of state officials including Governor Herbert R. O'Connor, Secretary of State Francis Petrott and Maj. Gen Milton A. Reckford, Maryland adjutant general, were waiting to greet Mr. Roosevelt when he came ashore from his yacht. Also present were the three congressmen through whose districts the president will pass today—D'Alesandro, Sasscer and Kennedy.

After surveying the army's work here, the president was to be driven over the New Philadelphia road to the Martin plant at Middle River, and en route from there to Camp Meade he and his party will stop somewhere along the road for a picnic lunch.

Mayor Jackson will meet the motorcade at the city limits of Baltimore, but Baltimoreans who want to see the president will have to assemble on the route around the city which avoids the heavy traffic sections.

last year and children had no supervised recreation the past summer. A levy to support them has twice been defeated at the polls.

Although funds derived from a levy cannot be earmarked specifically for each department on the ballot, council had agreed on a tentative schedule of distribution.

At the September meeting councilmen pledged assurance that the money would be spent as outlined, although succeeding councils have the alternative of changing the various amounts since all the funds go into the city's general fund.

Tentative distribution calls for approximately half of the annual revenue to be spent on improving the fire department, a total of $17,000 proposed for new equipment and $7,500 for four additional firemen.

A total of $10,000 is earmarked for the police department for four additional patrolmen and new radio equipment, although this amount may be eliminated all together and spent elsewhere providing revenue from the proposed installation of parking meters raises the necessary funds.

Another $10,000 would go towards maintaining supervised playgrounds, $5,000 for airport maintenance and improvement, and $7,500 for park improvements.

zealous" air raid precaution workers.

They compared this to a recent incident in which A. R. P. workers ordered everyone to keep their gas masks handy. Such precautions were not necessary, authoritative quarters said, since there has been no indication anywhere of the intended use of poison gas.

It was expected that Berlin's industrial north, northwest and southeast areas would take the greatest interest in the plan for optional evacuation of children.

These sections of the city not only contain the greatest number of children but also the poorer groups living in the capital.

The offer is effective in Berlin immediately.

BRITISH DRIVE BACK GERMANS FROM LONDON

Repulse Air Raid Attack on Capital; Other Cities Are Hit, However.

tive night of air attack against London brought no more bombs than usual recently and again credited an effective anti-aircraft barrage with keeping most of the raiders away from the central part of the capital.

There were some heavy explosions in mid-London, though, and a large fire which a communique said was of "serious character" was started in the old section which houses London's financial district, warehouses, markets and other business.

The communique said the fire "is now under control."

Other fires were started in Merseyside, Liverpool's important shipping and ship building waterfront.

Berlin Describes Widespread Raids

BERLIN—(AP)—Nazi warplanes are strafing the united kingdom from Aberdeen to the English Channel without stopping, causing new devastation to British war industries, the German high command reported today.

London and Liverpool, hit by "closed formations and individual planes," bore the brunt of Nazi attacks last night, said the communique. Aberdeen, Edinburgh and Leith in Scotland, were listed as targets for heavy caliber bombs.

Informed sources elaborated on the high command statement to say "extraordinarily widespread" fires were seen in Merseyside port facilities and ware houses after the attack on Liverpool and explained high winds spread the flames speedily.

The high command listed plane losses in air engagements yesterday at 18 British to four German.

It said an "especially important" armament plant in the midlands suffered "big destruction" by a heavy caliber bomb. Two convoys were reported "dispersed" off the east English coast.

British warplanes roared into Germany during the week-end in retaliation, however, driving Berliners into shelters for one hour and 50 minutes this morning and for two hours and 10 minutes Sunday morning, in addition to attacking other sections of the reich and German-occupied territory.

The official German news agency, DNB, said Nazi dive bombers attacked the Rolls Royce motor works in Derby, England, from a height of 170 feet, and the crew of one warplane, piloted by First Lieut. Baron Von Butlar, reported seeing walls of assembly halls collapse.

Other raiders, the Germans said, bombed east and south coast harbors and industries in the Midlands.

Informed sources said heavy caliber bombs were dropped on Edinburgh Saturday night, starting fires which could be seen 125 miles away.

The high command asserted 5,000 tons of bombs were loosed on England that night, 4,000 tons on London alone.

Informed sources said one British night raider was shot down during sallies centered chiefly in western Germany where, according to first reports, nine persons were injured.

Gibraltar's Fate 'Settled,' Claim

ROME—(AP)—Joint Italian-German plans for fulfillment of Axis goals — including Gibraltar — have been reached at a Berlin conference which included Col.-Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command of German armed forces, Virginio Gayda reported today.

The authoritative fascist editor said in Il Giornale D'Italia that a meeting between Spain's minister of government Ramon Serrano Suner, Italian foreign minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, German foreign minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop and Gen. Keitel had "unified plans of the three friendly powers."

This was taken in some foreign circles as a sign that Spanish Generalissimo Francisco Franco may have agreed to allow German troops to use Spain as a base for attack on Gibraltar.

Serrano Suner, who is on his way to Rome with side trips to points of issue between Italy and Spain in conversations with Premier Mussolini, Gayda said.

Gayda declared flatly that the Axis' plans for reconstruction of Europe and Africa envisaged retention of Gibraltar to Spain.

ministration in power. They say, 'We agree with you, Mr. Willkie, that it has spent 60 billion dollars, wasted a good part of it and doubled the national debt. We agree with you that its domestic program is a complete failure. We even agree with you that it has handled the foreign situation to deprive us of any friends.'

"Yet they say we are in a critical period and perhaps we should continue the administration."

He said such an argument was advanced during the Chamberlain government's control in Britain, and asked if there was any one who didn't think there had been any improvement under Winston Churchill.

A change in the United States administration, he declared, would bring an improvement in direction of the army and navy. He asserted he could work with industrialists better than President Roosevelt to improve defense production.

"There is no question," he said, "but that 90 per cent of those men who have been called to Washington to step up production are going to vote for me. Above all, I know how to organize them to put them to work."

A five-hour conference with Joseph N. Pew, jr., Pennsylvania oil man and prominent Republican, preceded the opening of today's campaign tour of thickly-populated midwestern industrial states.

The Republican presidential nominee talked with Pew and Jay Cooke, party candidate for senator from Pennsylvania, while riding late yesterday from New York to Syracuse, N. Y.

The meeting was understood to have been at Willkie's invitation. The Pennsylvania delegation to the Republican national convention swung to Willkie on the final roll call just after he had received enough votes to assure his nomination. In the early balloting the bulk of the state delegates backed Gov. Arthur H. James.

Willkie will deliver a major speech at Detroit tonight, before the national federation of women's Republican clubs. The address will be broadcast over the NBC blue network at 8:30 p. m.

From Detroit Willkie will go to other Michigan manufacturing cities and then will turn back to campaign in Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York city and Brooklyn, New Jersey and Connecticut. He will speak on foreign policy at Cleveland Wednesday night, and will address Pittsburgh and Philadelphia rallies on Thursday and Friday, respectively.

Youngstown and Niles appearances have been added to his Ohio schedule.

His special train will stop in Niles at 8:30 a. m. Thursday for five minutes and at Youngstown from 8:35 to 9:40 a. m. enroute to Pittsburgh.

David S. Ingalls, Republican committeeman, said Willkie would remain in Cleveland Wednesday night after his public auditorium speech, which will be broadcast at 9:30 p. m.

Willkie's revised schedule of Ohio stops Wednesday includes: Toledo, 11:30 a. m. to 1.30 p. m.; Oak Harbor, 2:20 to 2:30 p. m.; Sandusky 3:10 to 3:20 p. m.; Elyria 4:05 to 4:25, and Cleveland 5:10. He talks on national defense in Cleveland's public hall Wednesday evening.

Ohioans To Take Willkie Stump

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Ohio Republican leaders, it was disclosed today, will take the stump shortly to aid the campaign of Wendell L. Willkie, the G. O. P. presidential nominee.

Plans for Governor Bricker and Sen. Robert A. Taft to make major speeches for the party's standard bearer were disclosed by the Republican national committee as Ohio party members made arrangements to give Willkie a rousing reception when he swings through the northern part of the state on his campaign tour Wednesday and Thursday.

The national committee announced in Chicago that Bricker would speak in an eastern city, yet to be designated, on Oct. 15 and in Elkhart, Ind., Oct. 26. Senator Taft's schedule provides for speeches in Milwaukee, Oct. 2; Winona, Minn., Oct. 3; Nebraska City, Neb., Oct. 4; Chicago, Oct. 5; Springfield, Mo., Oct. 7, and Cape Girardeau, Mo., Oct. 8.

citizen but the state. These acts are more than merely supplying other countries with one's own goods—these are acts of war."

Sees Jap Action Saving U. S. from War

TOKYO—(AP)—The new Rome-Berlin-Tokyo military alliance probably will "save hundreds of thousands of Americans from death on foreign battlefields," Col. Shuitsu Matsuoka, chief of the Japanese army information section, said today in an interview.

We gather the impression from American publications that the United States is drifting steadily toward entry into the conflict," he declared.

"If this is so, this alliance must have made a considerable portion of the American public aware of the dangers of participation and it may serve as a brake on such rashness."

The Japan Times, the foreign office's English language mouthpiece, declared editorially that the United States state department had betrayed the British and American people by a series of "warlike moves in the Pacific," and these solely were responsible for the tripartite alliance.

Expect British To Open Supply Line

LONDON—(INS)—Sharp new British retaliatory measures against the Italo-German-Japanese military agreement were predicted for an early date by well-informed political circles in London today.

Britain is expected to reopen the Burma road for military supplies to China before October 18. In addition, it was said, the British dominions will shortly announce diversion to Great Britain of vital war materials previously exported to Japan.

Informed British circles now believe that announcement of a military alliance between Spain and the Axis powers is an imminent certainty.

When this has been achieved, Britain confidently expects another "final" peace offer from Germany before the winter sets in. Informed circles, however, declare it will make no impression.

Britain, it was said, "has taken into full account recent and expected Axis moves and is adjusting its campaign plans accordingly."

REDS SAY PACT MEANS WIDENING OF WAR SCOPE

Blames U. S. Aid to Britain For Enactment, and Says Russia Still Neutral.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW — The Communist party newspaper Pravda declared today that the new triple Axis pact, which it laid in part to military co-operation between the United States and Great Britain, presages further widening of the war.

Soviet Russia, Pravda said in an editorial marking the first Russian comment on the accord, remains firmly neutral. The newspaper said Russia was notified of the German-Italian-Japanese alliance in advance of its announcement by Germany.

Accounting for the pact, Pravda said "doubtless it was stimulated in the first place by the latest facts of intensification and extension of military co-operation between England and the United States."

"It signifies the advent of a new phase of the war which is more extensive than prior to conclusion of the pact," Pravda said. "If until lately the war has been confined to a sphere in Europe and northern Africa in the west and a sphere in China in the east . . . now an end is being put to this separation. . . .

"Henceforth Japan renounces a policy of non-intervention in European affairs while Germany and Italy in their turn renounce a policy of non-intervention in far eastern affairs.

"This doubtless means further aggravation of the war and expansion of its realm."

The newspaper said a significant phase of the pact was that "it openly recognizes spheres of influences of its signatories and division of these spheres between them with the undertaking of mutual defense of these spheres of influence against attempts on the part of other states—and certainly in the first place on the part of England and the United States which collaborates with her."

The United States and England were said to have co-operated in these ways:

"Continuously increasing military assistance rendered by the United States to England: transfer of English naval bases in the western hemisphere to the United States, inclusion of South American countries in the sphere of influence of the United States; and England's consent to transfer her far eastern and Australian bases to the United States."

(There has been no report from London or Washington that the British have consented to transfer far eastern and Australian bases to the United States.)

Toledo Labor Council to Oust Roosevelt Leaders.

TOLEDO—(AP)—The Toledo building trades council, A. F. of L., has voted to demand the resignation of Harry Card and Earl Parker as president and vice president, respectively, of the Toledo central labor union for their participation in the joint labor committee, set up Monday to campaign for the reelection of President Roosevelt. The council has a membership of between 4,000 and 5,000 construction workers. The joint committee consists both of AFL and CIO officials.

The council at the same time indorsed Wendell Willkie, Republican candidate for president, and Gov. John W. Bricker, Republican nominee to succeed himself.

Thomas Quinn, vice president of the council and business agent of the painters' union, offered his resignation as vice president of the council. The resignation was tabled and other officials said they will attempt to persuade Quinn to reconsider. Quinn said he could not support Bricker because of what he termed the governor's anti-labor record.

FRENCH ACT TO PREVENT ANY BRITISH MADAGASCAR SORTIE

(By International News Service)

VICHY, France—Envisaging a new "Dakar incident" this time in the Indian ocean, the French government took swift measures today to defend its strategic colony of Madagascar from any possible British assault.

Instructions were sent to Madagascar to resist any British attempt to seize control of the island, situated off the southeast coast of Africa.

Governor General Leon Cayla was ordered to "oppose any political, military or naval menace" after the British issued an alleged radio ultimatum demanding that the colony repudiate the Vichy government of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain and join the "Free French" forces of Gen. Charles De Gaulle.

According to reports reaching Vichy, Cayla rejected "with scorn" the British capitulation order even before receiving the instructions of the Petain cabinet.

The British ultimatum, dispatched less than four days after Great Britain's abandonment of the siege of Dakar, threatened Madagascar with blockade of its commerce and isolation unless it surrenderd to British terms.

The 980-mile long island, which has already reaffirmed its loyalty to the Petain government, is situated in the Indian ocean 240 miles off the African coast, and is strategically located astride Britain's important South African trade routes.

Madagascar, with a population of near 4,000,000, including 25,250 Frenchmen and foreigners, and an area of 242,000 square miles, is an important source of food and mineral supplies.

LOANS WITHOUT ENDORSERS

You can borrow $100 if you can pay back $4.46 a month—See table for other loan plans—No credit questions asked of friends or relatives—Quick, friendly service.

YOU can get a personal loan —without red tape or delay —if you can repay in small monthly installments. All you do to apply for a loan at Household is to acquaint us with your problem. You need no bankable security—no endorsers or guarantors.

You may repay your loan on any of the schedules shown in the table below. Thus you may choose the payment plan which best fits your own needs and income.

Payments to fit your purse

Suppose that you need a $100 loan. You find this amount in the first column of the table. Then read across picking out the monthly payment which you wish to make. You will see, for instance, that monthly installments of $9.46 each will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $4.46 a month for thirty months will also repay a $100 loan.

You will note that the sooner you repay the less your loan costs. Four monthly installments of $26.26 each, or a total of only $105.04, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full.

Same rate to everyone

Installments shown in the table repay everything. These installments include charges at Household's rate of 2% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $300, and 1½% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $300. This rate is substantially less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law. Household has only this one rate —the same for everyone, whether new customer or former borrower.

Simple to borrow

You get your Household Finance loan in a simple, private transaction. We require no stocks or bonds. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) You are spared the embarrassment of asking friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. And no questions regarding your credit are asked of friends or relatives.

Considerate treatment

You may expect every consideration in case of sickness or unemployment while paying on a Household Finance loan. Last year we foreclosed on only one chattel mortgage for each 20,000 loans. This action was taken only as protection against fraud.

If a loan can help you, phone or visit us for further information. No obligation.

Government Takes Steps to Prevent Draft-Dodging

PASSPORTS TO DRAFT CLASS BEING REFUSED

State Department Turns Down Requests Unless Unusual Grounds Exist.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The state department reportedly is refusing passports to men of conscription age to prevent draft-dodgers from fleeing the country, it was learned today.

This information was gained by International News Service simultaneous with disclosure that President Roosevelt has signed an executive order naming Lieut. Col. Lewis B. Hershey temporary director of the national draft board.

President Roosevelt took the step, it was said, in order that registration of the nation's 16,500,000 men of draft age (21 to 35, inclusive) could proceed without delay on Oct. 16 — just 16 days hence.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the state department is refusing to issue passports to men of conscription age unless unusual grounds for leaving the country are presented.

While the department was silent on the so-called "crack down" on potential draft dodgers, it was learned that attempts of a congressman to obtain a passport for a young man of draft age, who has a scholarship in a South American country, met with failure.

The state department, this congressman was told, would not issue travel documents to anyone of conscription age. While there has been a general restriction on passports since the European war started, the tightening-up has not heretofore involved western hemisphere nations.

President Roosevelt's action in naming Hershey temporary draft director indicated that confusion still exists over the naming of a permanent administrator of the selective service system.

Hear Reports of Fight.

For days, reports have circulated that a terrific undercover fight for the post was underway between Maj. Gen. Allen Gullion and Hershey, carried on by their friends, not by the men themselves.

Hershey, at present executive officer of the selective service system was mentioned as the outstanding favorite for the $10,000-a-year job when President Roosevelt signed the conscription bill on Sept. 16. Later, Gen. Gullion, now judge advocate general of the army, was named as the man most likely to be nominated to the post.

The president, by naming Hershey temporary, managed to postpone nomination of a permanent director.

Appointment of Hershey assured draft officials throughout the country of a "director pro-tem" to issue orders. Up until now, it was stated, there has been some confusion because of the delay in naming a conscription chief. This was particularly true, it was added insofar as issuance of orders to state headquarters were concerned

NAZIS ANGRY

'Not Satisfied' With Dutch Political Developments.

BERLIN —(AP)— Dienst Aus Deutschland, news service closely connected with the Wilhelmstrasse, said today that Germany was "in no way satisfied with political developments in the Netherlands."

The news service called attention to criticism of Dutch politicians appearing in "Deutsche Zeitung in Den Neiderlander," which asserts it is hardly strange that Dutch Nazis should make known their demands "since they are opposed to the outlived dictatorship of democracy."

It also says that the new political movement in Holland is one which recognizes the new political revolution of all Europe and its meaning for Holland.

Aroused by Thomas Junkin, 28 night clerk, after the holdup, they found the bandits had chained and padlocked the door handles, and the sleepy coppers were locked in until local police arrived.

PUZZLE

Shelby WPA Street Project Not Started Yet.

SHELBY — City officials here were still puzzled to what had happened to the WPA project for widening Main street which had been approved by Columbus WPA officials early this summer.

It had been promised that the project would get underway early in the summer. Then the project was postponed. After a conference between city officials and state WPA officers at Columbus later in the summer, it was decided that the improvement program would open here about Sept. 16.

With September passed, city officials today said they were puzzled as to what happened to the project.

Under the project, the street was to have been widened an average of three feet on each side by WPA labor. The city, as sponsor, would pay for the material while WPA gave federal grants for the labor expense.

PETIT JURORS START DUTIES

Hear Judgment Suit After Settlement Clears Docket of One Action.

With one case settled and out of the way, the Richland county petit jury convened before noon today to hear a case involving a $650 judgment suit brought by O. G. Spurgeon against John C. Karcher.

Spurgeon seeks damages for an alleged breach of contract for the construction of a house for Karcher. Atty. Marshall Moore is counsel for Spurgeon.

A case scheduled for trial this morning was settled before the jury convened. In the action, A. T. Leedy, Bellville, sought $150 for damages to his front yard fence and lawn as the result of a traffic accident several months ago.

The action was against John W. Davis and others who were in a car which crashed through the fence and across the lawn.

Three other cases are scheduled for hearing this week by the jury. One is set for Tuesday, another Thursday, and the last on Friday.

Victim of Stomach Distress Tells of Rescue by 'Vendol'

Electrician Had Gas, Sourness, Acid Risings, Palpitation, Headaches, Heavy Feelings Associated with Constipation. Got Amazing Relief from Vendol.

MR DAVID H. RICHEY

"My health was not bad enough to have me down where I couldn't keep going but many days found me very miserable and upset," declares Mr. David H. Richey, an electrician formely employed by the City of Mansfield. "I was constipated almost every day unless I took medicine, and when I neglected this I would suffer so badly from acid indigestion, gas, pains, bloating, hot liquid rising in my throat and a feeling like a heavy lump lay on my chest, that I could hardly beat it. This made my nerves quiver and sometimes I'd have swimming headaches and little spots darting before my eyes.

"I had tried different things, but one day my druggist told me he never sold a better medicine than Vendol for these troubles, so I got some and it proved to be everything he said. Vendol relieved my constipation giving full, complete easy action; then all signs of upset, distressed stomach disappeared; the little spots before my eyes, swimming in the head, and jumpy nerves were relieved; in fact, Vendol made me feel better than in years, so I am glad to recommend it to others.

Vendol is sold by most all leading druggists here and is especially recommended by Central Drug store.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1940.

One suggestion is that this campaign needs more enthusing syrup.

There should at least be assurance that "conscientious objections" didn't come on suddenly.

According to Robert Quillen: "Democracy has hit bottom when public servants sacrifice the welfare of their country rather than agree with the other party."

Few Objectors To Defense

MILITARY defense measures, including the army draft, are viewed, a commentator remarks, with "a mixture of reluctance and gladness." We are not a military people, yet from earliest days the American people were accustomed to bearing arms, alike for peaceful use and for defense. In revolutionary times, and even in Civil war days, the transition from civilian to martial life was easy. A citizen could go to the front with his own gun, do his duty with it and bring it back home with him.

It is different now in many ways. Modern warfare requires far more careful, varied training and more powerful and complex weapons. There is a change from personal fighting to highly mechanized and impersonal warfare. But in the quality of our troops and in their relations to each other and to the nation they serve, there may be little change.

For the character of Americans, and their relation to each other and to their government, has not altered much, in spite of time and immigration and a far greater mixing of races in our citizenship. The army trained for protection of our American democracy will itself be democratic, like its predecessors.

Jail Sentence for Drunken Driving

TRAFFIC accidents in the Mansfield area within the past few weeks may have the effect of awakening the public to need for more general law observance, in matters of speed and caution, and also for more drastic enforcement of traffic regulations in cases which involve careless, reckless, incompetent or drunken driving.

Ease with which a driver's license can be secured by anyone, upon payment of 40 cents, places an unnecessarily heavy responsibility on law enforcement officers, as some of the weeding out should be done in the process of issuing licenses.

However severe a jail sentence of thirty da and suspension of driving privilege for one year may appear to the person involved in an accident, and who pleads guilty to the charge of driving while intoxicated, the danger of driving a car while under the influence of liquor should not be minimized.

It is the lenience of courts, in some instances of flagrant violation of traffic regulations, that merits adverse criticism, rather than severity of penalties in cases which might easily have resulted in serious injury or loss of life because of unsafe driving.

Realization of a strong probability that jail sentence and suspension or revocation of driver's license would be included in the penalty of habitual traffic law violators might cause some of the "wild drivers" in Mansfield and vicinity to think BEFORE they are arrested, instead of afterward.

No Mercy To the Weak

THE biblical qualities of justice and mercy are what the dictators have least of, and all who count on them are lost, Walter Lippmann wrote recently in the New York Herald-Tribune, of the statesmen involved in the fall of France:

> "They are misled into believing that the more impotent they were, the better terms they would receive. No greater error was ever committed by an intelligent people. Had they followed the advice of General de Gaulle, continued their resistance from Africa and Asia Minor and on the seas, they would at the very least have had some power with which to negotiate with the Germans and Italians. But instead they threw in their hand before they had played it out. And since in the world today there is no chivalry and no mercy, the more helpless they are, the worse they will be treated."

It is something for Americans to remember in all our dealings with this faithless brood of predatory statesmen until they are swept from power, as they eventually will be.

Celestial Guides To Pilots

AIR PILOTS at last have an advantage over seamen in weather as well as speed. They can rise above weather conditions by land or sea and fly in the clear upper air. And there, at an altitude of three miles or more, they are not dependent on radio beams, beacons or land signs. They can simply use the mariner's sextant to "shoot" the sun or the stars, as seamen have long done in clear weather, and by a simple computation know just where they are.

By this procedure, it is said, a pilot plotting a course from Chicago to Los Angeles, an eight-hour flight in a stratoliner, without radio, compass, automatic direction finder or beacons, could "hit the field" squarely by taking a sight every half-hour. Up there any star will serve as a guide.

Not only is the air clear at such a height, but the weather is fair. Wherefore it may be expected that civilian fliers hereafter will be mostly invisible from the ground. They will fly as high as military fliers, or higher. And the passengers themselves will see less and less, except the cloud formations below them.

Objections To 'Ramparts' Film

THE state of Pennsylvania has become all stirred up over efforts to ban some parts of a motion picture that has been attracting considerable attention. It seems that after the film had passed the board of censors a portion of it was changed. The new part includes sections of a Nazi film called "The Baptism of Fire" screened in Germany, showing the destruction of Poland. The latter is supposed to be part of the German propaganda of fear. The board of censors insists that the offending parts be eliminated, and then states that the main picture, "The Ramparts We Watch," has been passed by the board and is considered all right.

Two things emerge from the welter of threats to close theaters and confiscate the film, injunctions against closing theaters, argument and talk. One is that somewhere along the line the German propaganda section managed to slip in where it did not belong. Evident'y film ramparts need a little closer watching. Another is that no better advertising could be had for the film, German part and all, than just such a tempest in a teapot as has been stirred up.

Drugs of the sulphanilamide group are being successfully used in diseases due to streptococcal and pneumococcal bacterial invasions—and fortunately it isn't necessary to know how to either spell or pronounce the words.

BIG JOB—LITTLE MAN

Will Willkie's Voice Hold Out?

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Leaving out the possibility that President Roosevelt may make some move in connection with the war; which would turn everything in the presidential campaign topsy-turvy, the most important thing to watch is Wendell Willkie's voice. The big question is whether that bad throat of his can stand the ordeal he had planned.

If Willkie can make the sort of campaign those who knew him had visualized, he might be able to work wonders. The man has magnetism. He has the faculty of winning any small group to whom he talks, and this goes for crowds up to 500 and 600, to a degree possessed by few political figures.

NO ONE had thought, much less Willkie himself, that he would not be able to stand the physical strain of the campaign. Willkie has been making two or three speeches a week for a long time, especially in the period immediately preceding the Philadelphia convention.

But making one speech a day, even to a crowd of 500 to 1,000, is one thing. Making TEN speeches a day from the rear end of a railroad train, with a monster meeting every few days, probably on a national hookup for radio, is quite another. There are mighty few men who can do that. There are lots of men who think they could do it, but would not be able to talk above a whisper a week after they started.

The big possibility in this campaign, always leaving out war move eventualities, is whether Willkie can do it.

If he cannot, he will lose the biggest vote-getting magnet in his bag of tricks. It is a personal touch of the smaller meetings that is Willkie's magic. It is not the big formal speeches that are broadcast over the land.

Both are vital, but it is UNTHINKABLE that he should not make the big speeches. So if one or the other line of attack must be given up because of throat trouble, it will be the little rear end of the train speeches that must be sacrificed.

THERE is nothing new about this development except that for some reason none of his friends thought Willkie's throat could not stand any amount of use. For example, in the 1924 campaign John W. Davis was the nominee of the Democrats for the presidency, and he attempted a nation-wide stumping tour. Davis had been in congress. He had been solicitor general of the United States. He had been and still is regarded as one of the really great orators of the country.

But how his throat did crack! He was obliged to get a throat specialist to travel with him, but even with expert medical aid he was unable to do anything like the job he had mapped out for himself, a job he had been confident of his ability to perform.

Some people think that the amplifiers solved the problem of this strain on the throat. Most emphatically they have not. Any one listened to the broadcast of the two national conventions, where the amplifiers were magnificent, knows that some voices were clear and loud, some muffled and hard to understand. A man speaking into a microphone for amplifiers in a big hall, where the audience must hear, is almost forced to strain his voice, although a man speaking into a microphone in a radio studio can read along in a perfectly natural voice, without straining.

Speaking in the open air, as rear end train speakers must, is even harder on the voice than speaking in a convention hall.

Health and Diet

Taking Pain Out Of Neuralgia.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The second commonest site for neuralgia after the sciatic nerve, is the shoulder. There are good anatomical reasons for this. The relations of the bones and joints to the nerves are complicated and intimate. There is a bursa in the shoulder which may get inflamed and bursitis, arthritis and neuritis are all mixed up, making for the combination called "neuralgia."

The place where neuralgia of the shoulder hurts worse is right over the large muscle, the deltoid, that sits like a cap on top of the shoulder or head of the arm. The nerves that go to this muscle are the suprascapular and the axillary. There arises from the bronchial flexus a large group of nerves that come out of the spinal cord in the neck and separate and rejoin each other. So that when one is affected the trouble may creep around to the others, and since one of them goes down the arm and ends in the hand, it is natural that shoulder neuralgia should radiate over that area and the poor sufferer doesn't know whether it is the shoulder, the elbow, the arm or the back of the hand that hurts te worst.

Rest Paramount.

In treatment again we say, as in sciatica, that rest is paramount. And it is very hard to induce rest in subdeltoid bursitis. The bursa is filled with fluid and tense when inflamed and pressure makes it hurt worse, so the victim finds that certain positions of the shoulder give relief. So he goes about hunching his shoulder, and twisting the elbows, trying to find what movements hurt them. When he finds out he is by no means content and reasons if he can swing the arm forward he can rotate it, and abduct it, so the poor bursa gets no rest at all, but is constantly being scraped and pressed. The victims twist their arms until they finally manage to hurt themselves enough to say "ouch." In the early stages of the affliction rest may be the only thing they need to get well.

Heat Helps.

Physical therapy should accompany rest in the early stages—heat, externally applied or, far better, short wave diathermy, which by an electrical current produces heat in the afflicted tissues themselves.

Latter on massage is beneficial. The medical profession has known about massage for years and has developed it so that it is truly scientific. Why they don't use it more is a mystery. I know of a patient with shoulder neuralgia who, after being in the hands of the doctors and having all his teeth removed, diet arranged, gone to a hospital for study, in despair went to a chiropractor, and is improving under this form of massage. I don't see that the regular doctors can blame him very much—he gave them their chance.

This Is Ohio

OHIO, although 35th in land area among the states, ranks sixth in railroads with 8,530 miles of track.

Geographically located in the center of the industrial area, the Buckeye state is crossed by the main east and west trunk lines, connecting mid-west agriculture and industry with eastern population centers and the seaboard.

Rail connections with Great Lakes traffic on the north and coal to the southeast, both in and out of Ohio, add to the state's importance in railroad transportation.

Knox Helped Oust 'Chip' Robert; Tax Plan Benefits Big Business

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Behind the scenes, President Roosevelt appealed to a Republican to oust "Chip" Robert from his job as secretary of the Democratic national committee.

The Republican was Frank Knox, secretary of the navy, and he acted not only at the secret prompting of the president, but with the enthusiastic approval of National Chairman Ed Flynn.

Roosevelt first wanted to oust Robert in 1939, specifically asked Jim Farley, then national chairman, that this be done. But Farley, already bitten by the White House bug, did nothing, feared that if Robert was replaced his successor might be hostile to his (Farley's) ambitions.

Roosevelt renewed his request shortly before the national convention, but again Farley ignored it. In fact, it was with Jim's co-operation, that Robert was re-elected. Some national committeemen claimed afterwards that they understood the re-election was only for one month, to Aug. 17, when Farley stepped out. But according to the minutes of the meeting, under Robert's jurisdiction, the re-election was for a full four-year term.

When Flynn stepped into Farley's place, the ouster screws again were quietly turned on. Flynn wrote a formal letter directing that he reply in writing to various charges regarding government contracts. But when this failed to produce results, Roosevelt intervened personally.

He had a talk with Frank Knox, who sent Chip word to this effect:

"As secretary of the navy I don't consider it good public policy for you to be engaged in government business while holding a high party office. If you continue in that post the navy department will be compelled to draw the line on government contracts to your firm."

This ultimatum apparently turned the trick and Robert resigned. His engineering firm enjoys a good reputation and presumably it will continue to work on government contracts now that Chip has left politics.

Note — Leading congressional choice for the national committee post is Representative Lyndon Johnson of Texas, young, hard-hitting liberal who has the confidence both of Democratic regulars and New Dealers and is a Roosevelt favorite.

Mrs. Evie Robert.

ARE you going to live in Atlanta, Evie?" asked a friend of blond and glamorous Mrs. Robert after her husband's resignation was announced.

Mr. Robert is a native of Georgia.

"No, we're not going to Atlanta," replied Evie. "That is, not unless they catch up to Chip."

Then she added: "And if they do, Chip built the penitentiary down there and he won't have any trouble getting out."

Dakar and Doctrine.

IT IS NOT being shouted from the housetops, but actually the British defeat at Dakar was just about as much of a defeat for the U. S. A. At first glance this may sound like an extreme statement, but the reason for it is that the Germans had planned to use Dakar as a jumping-off air base to South America.

For several weeks they had been working feverishly in co-operation with the Vichy government of France to improve air facilities there, and had concentrated twenty large transport planes capable of making the transatlantic flight to Brazil. Supposedly these transport planes were to carry German merchandise being sold to South America. However, they are the same type of plane which landed troops in Norway.

One glance at the map will show why Dakar is so important to the United States and the Monroe Doctrine. It is on the bulge of Africa which juts out farthest toward the bulge of Brazil. An airplane flight between Dakar and Natal takes about half the time of an airplane flight from New York to Brazil.

Note—Two factors contributed to the British failure at Dakar: (1) General de Gaulle had shown them confidential reports from Frenchmen at Dakar that they would go over to the British the moment the British ships appeared; (2) the British had allowed three French cruisers to slip through the Gibraltar into the Atlantic and down to Dakar, and it was these powerful vessels which caused the British retreat. The cruisers had been allowed to pass Gibraltar in the belief that subsequently they would be friendly to the British—but they weren't.

Cola's Friend.

DURING the senate debate on the excess profits tax bill, much was said about the necessity of safeguarding the little business man.

One of the most zealous advocates of such protection was Senator Walter George of Georgia. In a ringing speech he assailed the treasury's tax proposals on the ground that they would load an undue burden on small firms.

The senate junked most of the treasury's excess profit formulas—presumably in the interest of the little business man. But a study of the axed measure discloses that besides the "little fellow," certain big fellows also will benefit—in fact, very handsomely.

One of these happens to be the Coca-Cola company, Georgia's richest concern. It will benefit to the tune of something like $10,000,000.

Coca-Cola made a net profit of $29,000,000 last year and on the basis of its 1940 first quarterly report should make a net of $33,000,000 this year. Under the treasury's tax plan the company's excess profits tax would have amounted to $13,000,000.

But Senator George, a member of the powerful finance committee, fought these proposals so vehemently that they were modified, with the result that as the bill was passed by the house, Coca-Cola would have been required to pay only $5,500,000.

Apparently, however, this still did not satisfy Senator George. When the measure reached the senate he renewed the battle with increased fury—and equal success. The bill was still further whittled down so that instead of $5,500,000, Coca-Cola would be taxed only around $4,000,000—or approximately $10,000,000 less than the treasury proposed.

At no time during his battling did Senator George mention the company. Neither, for that matter, did he refer by name to any small firm, although he spoke feelingly about such concerns.

Note—Other big companies that will benefit are General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, Dow Chemical, Parke-Davis.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Notes from the CCC (the reference herein the C-men is not my invention; the boys of the Civilian Conservation Corp refer to themselves that way):

Powers, Ore.—From an unpretentious member of the local CCC company to an army air corps lieutenant in less than two years is the record of former Enrollee Robert W. Fish. Fish progressed from "average enrollee" to powder man (in charge of blasting on the Rouge river project, to camp photographer, to camp newspaper editor, to Ohio State university freshman (working his way through), to graduate of the Army air corps base training school at Glenview, Ill., and the advanced schools at Randolph and Kelly fields in Texas. He's now with the 90th Bombardment squadron at March field, Cal.

Minersville, Cal.—An epidemic of Indian hair-do's followed the camp showing here of the movie, "Geronimo." The favorite was the "scalp-lock," consisting of a shaved head except for a waving patch of hair at the top of the noggin. Instead of scalping the fadists, Company Commander Stambaugh did a reserve Indian on the old Redskin torture method. Those whose hair has grown out can now emerge from barracks.

* * *

Bluffton, Ind. — Junior Leader Stanley Thompson was awarded a shiny new double-bitted axe for winning the chopping contest at the camp here. Teamed with Keith Bostwick, he also won the sawing contest.

* * *

Westfield, Mass. — After city firemen had "put out" the same forest fire three times in two days, C-men, armed with camp fire-fighting equipment, gave the blaze the once-over. P. S. It's still out.

* * *

Boulder City, Nev.—Our No. 1 nominee for the little man who had a busy day: Estel "Shorty" Fout. Sitting on a float, about 500 feet off-shore in the choppy blue waters of Lake Mead, a few miles above Boulder dam, Shorty heard the help-help cry of cramp-stricken Robert Bullman of Los Angeles. Shorty rescued Bullman, using break-holds and a chest-cross carry he had been taught at camp. A few minutes later Shorty rescued Miss Vida White, 23 years old, Santa Monica, Cal., and an hour later Miss Helen McCoy of Oklahoma City, Okla. Lifeguard Paul Gustlin gave C-man Fout high praise for his day's work.

Mill Creek, Cal.—Among "the wild visitors" to the camp here are a flock of bears who walk through (never around) the camp to the garbage pits. Just before dark, the C-men climb into trees to watch the evening parade. So far not a bear has been hugged.

* * *

Meade, Kas.—C-men here are gunning for the hit-and-run driver who killed "Minnie-the-Moocher," the camp's pet doe who was so tame she would enter the mess hall at meal times looking for her hand-out. The camp poets are working on an epic eulogy to Minnie, into which the further tragic note is being introduced that an autopsy disclosed Minnie was about to present the camp herd with a new addition.

* * *

Outing, Minn.—Jim Companion, pitching a double-header for the local camp's baseball team, defeated the Effie and Side Lake camps for the sub-district championship. He fanned 30 men.

A Farmer's Diary

Dad's Helper

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I PASSED a farmer along the highway. He sat near the center of the hay ladder and drove his weary team of grays that knew they were going home. He held the smooth glistening lines in his left hand while his other arm was placed firmly around the waist of his little boy of six. The youngster's arms were clasped about the darkly tanned unshaven neck of his father. I faintly heard the childish voice above the rattle of the empty wagon.

At the first intersection I stopped, hoping for another look at this little moving picture. I lifted my car hood and tested the oil, while the wagon approached. The wagon scene was as before—a buoyant rural classic. Still the slender boy embraced his father, and a look of rare understanding passed between them. No words were audible above the grinding of the wheels and the rattle of the rigging, but I saw the brawny hairy arm grip his offspring just a little tighter.

He drew in his lines as he came even with my car and asked if he could help me. I thanked him as I let down the hood. "That looks like a pretty fine boy you have along," I said. "He certainly loves his Daddy."

"I couldn't work my farm, if he didn't help," the farmer declared smiling. "He was just five last week, but he's getting to be more of a man every day." He placed his big broad-fingered hand up on his son's shaggy head and almost covered it. "Every night before he goes to bed he tells me to wake him when I go to milk in the morning, so he can go along. He tries to make me promise. There's one cow he likes to try to milk . . . but dye know, when I look in his little bed and see him asleep I can't get him up—but sometimes I stand there a little and watch him."

"A boy doesn't forget the touch of his father's hand," I said. "I think you are wise to show your feeling for him. The memory of a dad who cared is one thing we all can give our children."

The farmer flushed. "I don't want to let him down," he said. "It takes about all a man has to raise a boy right—but all in all it's about the most profitable man-sized job there is, I guess. And it makes a man's life more happy."

"That farmer," I mused as I drove on, "is giving his boy a heritage of memories, worth more than money."

CHAPTER XXXI

She thought' It wouldn t be bad if I had some one. . . . And she thought that if she had some one, she could laugh and say, "Look at the man running down the street after his hat' I wonder where all these people are going ...Why do people come to New York? What do they expect to find here that they can't find some other place' Let's stop somewhere and have a hot drink and a cigaret I know a place that's cheap where they have good spaghetti and good music and everybody calls the proprietor Poppa . 'What is life with its sharp vivid colors its neutral grays, its tragic black? Love still makes the world tick more than greed and ambition If Amy had charge it it it would be a wonderful world where every one would get a decent "break" .

She did not glance into the shop windows and she rejected the idea of stopping in to see a movie Movies were drugs that wore off when you came out Strip yourself of shams and pretenses and look into yourself Amy had written Very well Do it Do it now' And what did she see? That she was kinder and wiser than the Edwina of 18 had been but that some things about her were the same

Turning down a dark street she thought' There s one other person I know who is as alone as I am tonight and probably talking to himself reasoning with himself . . . Alan . Had he looked into himself? Where was he? Dick had been furtive about Alan s plans He had said "He wants to go away and try to forget the whole thing" Alan so young once, the Alan who had worn a shabby sweater to school who had danced badly and whose goal he had thought then could be reached by the clear certain line of hard work and honesty

She circled the apartment hotel twice before she went in blinking a little at the lights after the darkness, and walked straight to the empty elevator But when she heard a voice calling her name, she stepped off and looked wonderingly about the lobby Then Alan was hurrying across to her oblivious of the stares of passing people. He wore a dark suit and a rather rumpled white shirt and he was carrying his hat The sun of some tropical place had burned his face to a deep brown which accentuated the intense blueness of his eyes and his fair hair Realizing that his voice had broken in on the discreet murmurs of those in the lobby he smiled self consciously when he reached her

She did not know what had brought him but she knew now that he was here he was embarrassed and that probably he was asking himself why he had come To thank her or because in all of New York he knew no one else who would see him tonight? She knew, too that in one swift glance he had seen that she was changed, that her boyish black felt hat and tailored black coat were not the sort of clothes with which, if he thought of her at all, he would associate her

She said pleasantly, "Alan—you re back' Let me guess . . . Was it Florida or Cuba or . . ."

'Cuba Havana is quite a place, isn t it?'

'Quite There s a sitting room on the next floor Shall we . ."

They walked up to the sitting room, a large room unoccupied except for an elderly lady speaking softly but rapidly to a young girl Edwina sat on the red sofa and Alan sat beside her, and when he held a match to her cigaret and she looked at him, she saw that craftiness and scheming had gone from his face He had suffered, he had probably cried as men cry alone, and he looked older

As she pulled off the tight hat and shook her hair loose, she thought We meet as equals for the first time Alan Like people who are cold and come together for warmth or just as two lonely human beings

'Have you heard from Carol, Edwina?"

"Several times She and Norman are in Hawaii They were married here '

He glanced away and said 'You don t have to be gentle about it I d be lying if I said I didn t care but I d also be lying if I tried to give a picture of myself as a brokenhearted suitor I m not The repair job on me was so big I haven t thought of much else What about you?"

She shrugged and smiled "This is it I have a job and a home What have I to complain about?'

He looked at her steadily "A lot You haven t much of a job and not much money and this red plush doesn t make much of a home"

'Sympathizing with me Alan?"

'No Understanding you We re both in the same spot aren't we? I came back from Havana about a week ago and then went west to see a former classmate I have a job out there It isn't much but it s a job with possibilities I m on my way back to Newton to close my office there and have the furniture in the apartment shipped I wanted to see you before I left because . well to make sure I wasn t leaving an enemy "

She smiled We re not insulting each other as we usually do are we?' She shook her head 'I m not your enemy Alan I never have been I tried to tell you that this summer and you wouldn t listen I m the girl who broke the straight line of your life I got between you and the goal post And now you re breaking the line more by running away from Newton and from everything you ve worked for You re running away' Don t you know that?"

He looked down and nodded "I can t go back I'd—I d feel that very one knew"

Edwina was silent for a moment, her eyes were misty with tears When she looked again at Alan, his eyes were still lowered

"You re throwing away good years and good work and opportunity, Alan," she said 'And now you want to hide. Don t do it, Alan. Suppose you do have to grit your teeth to get back your confidence and face the people in Newton again Do it' Don't run to the easiest job in a place where nobody knows you You can't run away from shame You have to live with it and fight with it until you live it down It's like paying off a big debt

"You have friends in Newton —Amy and Dr Tallant and Mr Hartley They didn't let you down And you're still the young hopeful Make the line straight again, Alan Get back on it"

"You think I m a coward?" Alan looked straight at her now 'Don't you think I've thought of all those things? Newton is my town and I ve forfeited the right to live there and work there and watch it grow and be a part of its growth I'd never cheat it again Its a homely little town, the place your father settled in when he came from Ireland Its a town where you know the first name of the boy who puts gas in your car and the man who delivers your mail, the man on the street"

He closed his eyes and bit into his lips After a second he glanced up and said with a smile, 'I haven't had any dinner. Do you know a place . . "

Edwina smiled "I know a place where there s good wine and music and spaghetti and where everybody calls the proprietor Poppa . . .'

"Then let s go I haven't much time I want to get the train to Newton tonight I have my baggage checked at the station" His sudden laugh rich, warm and sincere, seemed to fill the room I ve never taken a girl out to dinner in New York, Edwina . . ."

'Odd that you should be taking me" she thought "Odd that I should be going with you and glad to be with you and anticipating it as if it were a really important occasion . . ."

The portly Italian proprietor recognized her and bowed her and Alan to a table covered with a red and white checkered cloth On it was a decanter of wine The place was almost deserted at this hour and the three musicians seemed to be playing exclusively for her and Alan Presently the smoke from their cigarets hovered about them as if to hear what they were saying

A FEW DROPS Blues A COMPLETE WASH LITTLE BOY BLUE BLUING

Informally Speaking...

Sept. 30, 1940.

Lucy, dear:

Marianne

WELL, tomorrow will mark the beginning of another month—the one that is noted for witches, hobgoblins and jack-o-lanterns, and even the weather we've been having these last few days has been typical of the weather we'll be having for about the next month. . . . It's nice though, isn't it? The mornings are brisk enough to make you step along on the way to the office, the sunshine's bright enough to keep you in good spirits, and a drive through the countryside will show you that Mother Nature is already at work with her paint brush, because the trees are beginning to take on those brilliant orange, red and yellow hues.

* * * * *

So with the weather so conducive, I wish you'd plan to drive over to our town one day this week, as it's been a long time since you were here, and I know you'd like to see some friends of yours who are visiting in town. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Kochenderfer and their daughter, Kay, of Minneapolis, Minn. arrived yesterday for a week's visit, and they're planning to have Kay here for her second birthday anniversary Friday. . . . You'll remember Mrs. Kochenderfer as Evelyn Weaver, who taught second grade at Brinkerhoff school before her marriage five years ago.

* * * * *

Ed Chatlain (son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Chatlain) is a senior at Wittenberg college down in Springfield this year, and a sketch of his personality has been included in the first issue of the campus paper. . . . In giving the low-down on Ed, it states that he is majoring in both business and physical education because he wants to be either a business man or a coach. . . . He's a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and Skull and Chain, senior men's honorary society. . . . A three-letter man, he is equally outstanding in football, baseball and basketball—although baseball is his favorite. . . . He lists Mickey Rooney as his favorite actor, Betty Grable as his favorite actress (probably proving that some gentlemen still do prefer blonds) and Jan Savitt, Jimmy Dorsey and Glenn Miller as his favorite band leaders—Oh yes, and the sketch writer commented that Ed seems to have the priceless gift of getting enjoyment out of everything he does.

* * * * *

WHILE we're on the subject of collegians, Jacques Edwards, who's a freshman down at Ohio university, was successful in his tryout for the university band and has been chosen to play the solo clarinet. . . . He's also on the staff of the monthly humor magazine, Ohioan, and a pledge of Sigma Chi fraternity. . . . The son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Edwards, he was a member of the Mansfield Senior high school band. . . . And another high school band member from here has made the university band too—he's Bill Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Smith, who's a freshman there this year.

* * * * *

And before we end our discussion of college students, I mustn't forget to tell you that Jennie V. Heston is in Columbus, where she's a student at Ohio State university. . . . This will be her junior year at the school, and she's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chalmer L. Heston.

* * * * *

IF YOU do come over this week, Lucy, be sure to look up Betty McQuillen as she's wearing a beautiful new diamond ring—an engagement present from Richard Jackson. . . . Back in the city after six weeks on the west coast is Mrs. B. L. Sites, who just returned following a stay in Los Angeles, Cal., where she studied under Dr. Nephi Cottom. . . . En route home, she stopped off in Lake Forest, Ill. to visit with friends for several days. . . . Other recent vacationers are Mr. and Mrs. J. Rexford Small, who spent the past three weeks visiting in St. Louis, Mo. They were guests there at the home of Mrs. Small's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Graham. They also spent several days with Col. and Mrs. Otis L. Graham at the Ft. Jefferson barracks in St. Louis and were honored at a formal dance party.

* * * * *

Now do come over if you can, Lucy, but if not be sure to write real soon.

Lovingly,

Marianne
